High Quality Hard Coal Found In Ancient Rocks Near Iron River

By JAMES A. O. CROWE
IRON RIVER (AP)—High quality, hard coal has been discovered in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The discovery raises the possibility of vast new supplies of coal throughout the world where no one ever looked for them before.

Geologists looking for uranium were stunned to stumble across the coal in the pre-Cambrian rocks, oldest in the world, six miles north of here.

500 Million Years Old

Previously geologists believed that no coal was formed before plant and animal life emerged from the water to take over the land more than 300 million years ago.

But this coal, on the basis of preliminary studies, is well over 500 million years old, and, unlike most other coal, was laid down in water by water-dwelling plants.

Coal of this type has never been found, geologists said.

The discovery of a few chunks of coal in such old rocks threw the geological world into a turmoil. The American Geological Society has put up $2,000 for a scientific exploration this summer.

The discovery became known when L. P. Barrett of the Atomic Energy Commission, head of the crew which found the coal, asked the State Conservation Department for permission to dig. The state owns the mineral rights on the land, part of the Ottawa National Forest.

Experts To Investigate

Conservation Director G. E. Eddy said the permission would be granted.

Barrett will be joined in the exploratory digging by Dr. Stanley A. Tyler of the University of Wisconsin and Dr. Elso Baghorn of Harvard University, both authorities in the field.

They hope to prove beyond any doubt that the coal is the oldest ever discovered. If they do, geologists throughout the world can start looking for undreamed of coal deposits in vast areas of pre-Cambrian rock.

These rocks cover much of eastern Canada, small parts of the northeastern United States, parts of Russia and elsewhere all over the world.

Barrett said the coal had been discovered originally 60 or 70 years ago by early prospectors for iron deposits but was not recognized.

Quantities Unknown

His crew, he reported, found the coal on a heap of rocks alongside an exploratory shaft sent down by the pioneer iron hunters.

Barrett said the possibility of its being ordinary coal brought into the site from a regular coal field was thoroughly studied. It has been proven, he said, that this could not be the case. There is little doubt, he said, that it was dug out of the surrounding rocks and discarded because it was obviously not iron ore.

No attempt will be made by the scientific exploration to assess the commercial possibilities of the deposit, Barrett said. He added that it was doubtful from first appearances that there was enough to make a mining operation profitable.

Social Security Expansion Bill Ready For House

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's program for a bigger and more liberal social security system was almost ready today for House consideration.

Members of the House Ways and Means Committee predicted their group would approve the legislation next week after a couple of finishing touches. The committee has been taking up the Eisenhower program on an item-by-item basis.

Late Friday, the committee approved all of the President's requests for higher benefits, and in a few cases added some of its own.

Income Base Raised

It also approved—over the opposition of most committee Republicans—the President's plan to raise from $3,600 to $4,200 the maximum annual income on which benefits are based and taxes are levied.

That left only two substantial items still to be acted upon: a proposal to extend coverage to farm laborers, and a plan to give disabled workers full benefits.

The committee already had accepted Eisenhower's request to extend social security coverage to doctors, lawyers and other professionals, to farm operators, ministers, state and local government employees and various smaller groups.

Maximum $162.50

If the bill becomes law, the system, now covering some 70 million workers and paying benefits to 6 million persons, would blanket almost the entire working force of the nation.

The social security system provides monthly payments to workers and their families on retirement or to their survivors. Both

Conflict Continues Between McCarthy And White House

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration seemed headed today for continued conflict with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) despite cautions from some Republican quarters against broadening the senator's dispute with top Army officials.

Foreign Aid Administrator Harold E. Stassen loosed a fresh attack on McCarthy Friday with an assertion that "we need less headline hunters and more Eisenhower backers for the good of America."

Strong Terms Used

With what some lawmakers surmised was White House assent, Stassen asserted McCarthy had made a "legion of false statements" in a Senate speech Wednesday in which the Wisconsin senator said it was "criminal folly" to continue to give financial aid to allies who ship goods to Red China. Stassen wouldn't say if the issue was discussed in his meeting with President Eisenhower Friday.

Stassen used strong terms at a news conference in spite of what an influential Republican senator said was his advice to the White House: Let McCarthy's row with Secretary of the Army Stevens run its course without unnecessarily fanning further the flame of party disunity.

Gag Order Criticized

McCarthy and Eisenhower are at odds over a presidential order cutting off testimony about a high-level administration conference at which the Army's dealings with McCarthy and his aides were discussed.

Interior Minister August Charnaud MacDonald said the explosion occurred Wednesday, killing a civilian and a soldier and injuring three other soldiers.

Arms From Poland

The saboteurs fought a gun battle with federal troops, he said, and then fled into the hills near the Honduran border. The arms shipment, moving to Guatemala City from Puerto Barrios on the east coast, was unharmed, he said.

(The U. S. State Department, voicing concern over increasing Red influence in Guatemala's leftist government, notified other Latin American countries last Monday that the Swedish ship Alpeheim was unloading a shipment of arms from Communist Poland at Puerto Barrios. Some Washington officials estimated the value of the arms at 10 million dollars. The State Department said they were loaded at Stettin, a former German port now in Poland.

The Foreign Ministry issued a communique Friday accusing the United States of spreading "malicious and unjustified" reports about arms purchases from the Communists.

No Concern Of U. S.?
The statement denied Guatemala had received any guns made in Russia or Poland and added it was no concern of the United States if it had.

The statement said also U. S. guns were going to several governments which have an "unfriendly and aggressive" attitude toward Guatemala.

The statement declared, also, the United States had committed an "act of aggression" against Guatemala by trying to "wear down the defensive capacity of the Guatemalan army through an arms boycott."

In Washington, observers pointed out that although Guatemala had denied receiving arms made in Russia or Poland, she had not denied getting them from other Iron Curtain countries.

One Hurdle Cleared
The week's big floor action was on Eisenhower's request for lowering the voting age in federal elections from 21 to 18 years. The Senate killed the proposed constitutional amendment Friday.

In another field, foreign trade, the President relaxed his pressure for tariff-cutting power now in the face of strong opposition, much of it from Republicans.

Eisenhower successfully cleared one hurdle that could have affected profoundly his relations with Congress. GOP leaders in the Senate accepted—at least for the time being—his order limiting executive branch testimony in the McCarthy-Army hearings.

Housing Bill Drafted
It voted coverage for more than seven million farm operators, professional people and state and local government employees. But it deferred action on the question of coverage for an estimated 2,600,000 farm laborers.

Lansing Ruling Boosts Levies By Five Billion

By JACK I. GREEN
LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard today notified 67 Michigan counties that they must start next Jan. 1 to assess all their taxes on the state equalized valuation, which is almost five billion dollars higher than the county equalized tax base they now use.

Millard's opinion stunned local officials who had succeeded only a few months ago in defeating a legislative bill to make the state equalized values the tax base. This has been widely sought by public school districts to obtain more local tax income.

Actually, Millard said he made public the same ruling late in February, but it seemed to go unnoticed until recently when county tax allocation boards began meeting.

12 Exempt In Peninsula

He issued a new opinion, coordinating all previous opinions on the subject, today at the request of Edward W. Kane, secretary of the State Tax Commission. Copies were sent to all counties.

Kane said the new—and higher—tax base will not be effective until Jan. 1 except in counties where an appeal has been taken to the state from the decisions of county allocation boards.

So far, only Saginaw and Genesee counties are in this position and can be brought under the new tax base this year, Kane said.

The new tax base affects 67 counties which have so-called fractional school districts—those that overlap from one county into the next. The 16 counties not affected include 12 in the Upper Peninsula and four in the Lower Peninsula.

Delta Affected

Millard said that under numerous Supreme Court decisions these principles must be followed:

1—The constitution requires all property in a taxing district to be assessed at the same uniform rate; 2—if a taxing district spreads over more than one county the only method of obtaining that uniformity is to tax on the state equalized valuation.

Millard said that the 15-mill tax limitation is not reached until the tax rates allocated by the county allocation board equal 15 mills on the state equalized valuation.

The 16 counties without fractional school districts—and therefore exempt from the ruling—include Gogebic, Ontonagon, Iron, Dickinson, Alger, Baraga, Chippewa, Luce, Mackinac, Houghton, Keweenaw, Schoolcraft, Montmorency, Oscoda, Presque Isle and Alpena.

Thus, it appeared that the advocates of a mandatory higher local tax base have won a victory without a fight—and did not even know they had won.

Kane said the implications of the opinion were only beginning to be felt in the counties and that some counties were threatening law suits to upset Millard's opinion.

Fuss In Legislature

Assistant Atty. Gen. T. Carl Holbrook, attached to the tax commission and revenue department, said he could not understand, in the light of the opinion, why there had been so much fuss in the Legislature this year to make the equalized valuation the tax base.

He noted, however, that a law would cover all counties, not just 67.

In the equalization process, the State Tax Commission decides what is the true value of all property in Michigan. Then it apportions that value between the counties and arrives at an "equalized value" for each county.

This normally runs lower than the county equalized value, which is an apportionment of property values in the cities, villages and townships as fixed by local assessing officers.

Auto Industry Business Good

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Auto Editor

DETROIT (AP)—Automotive circles this week heard revived merger gossip, saw another high output volume and got comforting words from the industry's leading producer.

The merger talk concerned two of the industry's oldest companies—Packard and Studebaker. They frequently have been linked in discussions of the industry's future. Some sources say their eventual consolidation virtually is certain.

So far as can be determined there have been no actual negotiations between the two management.

The industry's assembly lines this week accounted for 126,596 cars and 22,239 trucks. The total made up the highest production volume in almost nine months.

The comforting words for the industry came from Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp. He told a stockholders' meeting business has been good so far this year and he is convinced it will continue that way through 1954.

Proposal To Lower Voting Age To 18 Doomed In Congress

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's request to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 years was doomed for this session of Congress Friday by a solid line of 24 Democratic senators.

The minority party members—mostly Southerners—killed the proposed constitutional amendment in the Senate late Friday when supporters were able to round up only 34 votes. That fell far short of the two-to-one majority required to approve the constitutional change and send it to the house for a similar test.

State's Rights Sighted

While Eisenhower's request was also pending in the House it was believed futile for that body to even consider the amendment at this session after the Senate turn-down.

Not a Republican opposed the amendment in Friday's record vote although two, Hugh Butler of Nebraska and Malone of Nevada, did.

But Lancia, of Boston, Mass., disclosed the extradition request had not been forwarded to Bonn. He said through a state department press officer:

"This is a highly important case and I want to study all the facts before making any further statement."

He indicated nothing further would be announced until Monday, at the earliest.

Employment Situation Appears Improved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fresh Labor Department figures point to an improvement in the unemployment situation.

The department's Bureau of Employment Security said Friday unemployment among workers covered by state jobless insurance declined 56,800 during the week ended May 8 to a new level of 2,124,000, the lowest in three months, but still well above the 899,100 total a year ago.

The bureau traced the improvement to a seasonal employment pickup in certain industries.

were paired against it. Only seven of the 47 Democrats voted for it, while seven others were paired in its favor.

Opponents of the proposed constitutional change were led by Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), who bitterly assailed it as "an implied insult" to governors and legislatures of all the 48 states.

Russell's home state of Georgia now is the only one that permits 18-year-olds to vote. Although the Georgia senator said he is not opposed to an 18-year-old vote as such, he said the decision should be left up to each state individually.

Rejected By 37

Chairman Langer (R-ND) of the Senate Judiciary Committee, who has often sided against Eisenhower on other matters, this time teamed with Republican Leader Knowland (Calif) and Republican Sens. Dirksen (Ill) and Ferguson (Mich) in speaking for the lower voting age.

Both Knowland and Langer predicted Congress eventually will approve an 18-year-old minimum for voters—a change that has been proposed in Congress for years. All states except Georgia now set the legal age at 21.

Knowland replied to Russell's states' rights argument by saying that each of states must pass up any constitutional amendment. He said that was because approval of three-fourths, or 36, of the states is necessary before a constitutional change can take effect.

Russell and other opponents stressed that 37 states had considered and rejected proposals to lower the voting age.

Congress Seeks Quick Windup In Campaign Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—Most of the major work of Congress was done behind closed doors this week as committees labored at drafting measures to carry out President Eisenhower's legislative program.

Haste was dictated by Congress' desire to wind up its work as soon as possible in this campaign year. The President has said his party will stand or fall in the November election on the strength of its program.

Major bill-writing projects were in the fields of social security, housing and taxes.

Saboteurs Blow Up Guatemala Railway, Miss Munition Train

GUATEMALA (AP)—Guatemala said Friday night saboteurs blasted a rail line in an attempt to blow up a munitions train. The announcement came as the government heatedly charged the United States with spreading alarmist reports about arms arriving here from Iron Curtain countries.

Interior Minister August Charnaud MacDonald said the explosion occurred Wednesday, killing a civilian and a soldier and injuring three other soldiers.

The saboteurs fought a gun battle with federal troops, he said, and then fled into the hills near the Honduran border. The arms shipment, moving to Guatemala City from Puerto Barrios on the east coast, was unharmed, he said.

Big Raise Hinted For Steelmakers

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A wall of silence and quick retorts of "no comment" met a published report today that the big CIO-United Steelworkers Union is seeking a 50-cent-an-hour pay package boost from basic steel producers.

Some industry observers, although surprised at the figure, felt the union—following an old labor custom—was asking for more than it knew it could get. Others called the report ridiculous.

Officials of the union and U. S. Steel Corp., contract pacesetter of the industry, generally were mum.

U. S. Steel and union negotiators wound up a preliminary three-day bargaining session last Thursday at which the USW outlined its demands. Now the nation's No. 1 steel producer is studying the proposals and expects to have an answer ready in about two weeks.

Contracts expire June 30. The USW represents some 600,000 workers in basic steel who now earn between $2.14 and $2.24 an hour.

The fire, of undetermined origin, raced through the 250 foot long 60 stall barn located on the western side of the track.

Five stablehands and grooms suffered minor burns when they attempted to lead the horses to safety. Only two horses were seen to leave the barn before it fell to the flames.

The dead horses included "Just Made It" and "Foot Specialist" owned by Dr. Harry Lindy, of Detroit, president of the Michigan Thoroughbred Owners Assn.

Robert Leavitt, general manager of the track, which concluded its 1954 opening day program scant hours before the fire, estimated the total damage at $200,000.

He said today's nine race program would go on as scheduled. Leavitt said 1,200 horses are stabled at the track.

Assistant Circuit Atty. George W. Draper said the penalty was the stiffest ever given to a juvenile in his experience.

Mother Of Gladstone Man Killed On M-35

MEMONINE—Mrs. Mary Quistof, 92, of Mishicot, Wis., mother of Nye Quistof, 1118 Wisconsin Ave., Gladstone, was killed and Mrs. Nye Quistof was severely injured Friday when a car driven by Mr. Quistof crashed on a curve at the end of the concrete pavement on M-35 at Kleinke Park, about 15 miles North of Menominee. The accident occurred about 12:15 p. m. (EST).

Mrs. Quistof was taken to St. Joseph-Lloyd Hospital in Menominee. She sustained a broken left arm, rib fractures on both sides and head injuries. She also was suffering from shock. Mr. Quistof sustained minor bruises of the head.

Mr. and Mrs. Quistof were returning from Mishicot, Wis., where they visited with Mr. Quistof's mother on the occasion of her 92nd birthday anniversary. They left Mishicot about 10:30 a. m. Friday, taking the mother with them for a visit in Gladstone.

Quistof said he was driving about 65 miles an hour when he came to the end of the concrete. He said the car skidded sideways partially off the pavement until it hit the intersecting Kleinke road and then it flipped over.

Sheriff's officers said Quistof apparently was going north on M-35 at a fast rate of speed when he came to the curve at the end of the pavement and could not make the left curve. The car skidded 250 feet and overturned. The car was damaged beyond repair. The entire top was smashed in.

Francis Kleinke, who lives near Kleinke Park, was the first at the scene. He said the woman was dead when he arrived.

A tractor had to be used to lift the car, a 1932 Oldsmobile, off the woman's body, as she was partially pinned.

At the scene of the accident the highway makes a curve to the left and then reverses to the right on a gravel straightaway. It is a gravel road, leaving the concrete pavement, which was completed two years ago. The gravel turn cannot be safely driven at speeds as high as the pavement to the south and the hazard is denoted only by a wiggle turn caution sign.

Sheriff Edward J. Reindl and Coroner Lenwood Kell were investigating the accident. The body was taken to the Kell Funeral Home.

Fire Hazard In Woods Extreme

The forest fire hazard in this area is extremely high, "almost explosive," Paul St. Amant, U. S. Forest Service, reported this morning.

St. Amant reported that there has been no rain in the forest areas for 12 days and although undergrowth is becoming green, it has not advanced sufficiently to allay the fire threat.

The forester reported that this weekend is the most serious from a fire hazard standpoint of the entire season. He urged extreme caution by all who are in the woods this weekend, being particularly careful to extinguish cigarettes and to put out camp fires when they leave.

The fire hazard has been rising steadily for the past week, St. Amant said.

Despite the high hazard no serious fires have been reported in the U. S. Forests in this area. St. Amant said that public cooperation has been excellent.

All fire towers are manned and fire fighting crews have been alerted to the fire danger.

ROCKS PAY OFF — During the 44 years the Hatcher family fought to keep their 640 acres of land through drought and other misfortunes, Mrs. Effie Hatcher kept saying "this country must have something more in it than rocks and rattlesnakes."

She was right. Now she can look out over the wheat fields and see three producing oil wells in their midst.

On August 1, 1944, he was transferred to the safety and traffic bureau, Detroit, where he remained until September 1, 1946, when he was promoted to sergeant and assigned to command of the police training school at East Lansing headquarters. He received his promotion to lieutenant October 24, 1950.

Murray holds three citations for meritorious service.

Both he and Snyder were among 11 State Police officers whose promotions or transfers, or both, were announced by Commissioner Joseph A. Childs effective May 30. Five troopers also were transferred, one in the Upper Peninsula, effective June 15.

Other Transfers Listed

Low Blood Pressure

SOMETIMES the cause of low blood pressure is to be found in the blood itself. The pressure is always low, for instance, in case of anemia, which in turn may be due to reduced hemoglobin (coloring matter), reduced number of red cells, or loss of blood through hemorrhage.

Other cases of low blood pressure are due to nervous ailments. The heart, the arteries, and the blood may be sound and yet the blood pressure may be low. The caliber of the arteries is controlled by two opposing systems of nerves known as dilators and constrictors. The dilator nerves tend to increase the caliber of the arteries, while the constrictor nerves working in opposition tend to decrease the caliber. When both of these nerve systems are working normally, the caliber of the arteries is normal. Now, if something goes wrong with the constrictors, the dilators have the advantage because there is no opposition. Therefore, the caliber is increased and consequently the pressure is lowered.

Low blood pressure is not a matter for self-diagnosis or self-treatment. Doctors have instruments for measuring the blood pressure and ways of finding the cause of abnormal pressure. After the instruments have revealed that the blood pressure is low, the doctor does not proceed to treat the low blood pressure as such. He treats the disorder of the heart, arteries, blood, or nerves that causes the pressure to be low.

In the way of treatment much depends, of course, on the doctor. But much depends also on the patient and those afflicted with low blood pressure need frequent periods of rest; foods rich in minerals and vitamins; small meals with additional food taken in between; a quiet life, with light work; freedom from mental and emotional strain, especially is freedom from worry most essential.

Have you measured your HOME in dollars and cents recently?

Like almost everyone else, you probably give little thought to the amount of fire insurance and other forms of property insurance that you carry. When the policies were written, the amount seemed ample, and you have renewed them, without question, from time to time.

Ordinarily that would be a safe thing to do, because even with replacements and additional accumulations, the depreciation of your possessions would keep the amount fairly even.

With a sharp increase in replacement costs, many insurance policies are woefully inadequate—too low in amount to do much more than pay half the loss in event of a disastrous fire, windstorm or explosion.

Obviously, you should have as much insurance as the present-day value of your property. Let us show you the easy way to determine it.

Why Not Courtesy Envelopes For All Of City's Parking Violators?

GRANTED that good "tourist relations" is good business for Escanaba, there is an equally important economic factor in maintaining good relations with the people who are not tourists, not visitors, not just passing through. We mean the residents of Delta County.

When the Escanaba City Council, after several months of indecision, decided to establish a policy of "courtesy" to the out-of-county motorist who receives a parking ticket it overlooked the effect and reaction it will create among local residents.

The Council policy is to have the police place a courtesy envelope on the autos of out-of-town motorists who violate the parking meter ordinance. The motorist is requested to place 25 cents in the envelope and mail it to the police in lieu of personally reporting with a violation ticket.

But there is to be no such courtesy for the residents of Delta County. They will get a ticket—and they will pay the going rate of 50 cents per parking meter violation.

The solution, as suggested to the Council by Mrs. Leonard Vander of Escanaba at a recent Council meeting, is to issue the courtesy envelopes in every instance of parking meter violation. And the fine would be set at the same rate for everyone.

By this method there would be no discrimination either in the act of bestowing "courtesy" or collecting the penalty and our neighbors in Delta County would look upon Escanaba as a center of fair and courteous treatment—as well as a good place to shop the year around.

Congress Will Not Prohibit Fluoridation

THE possibility of federal legislation being enacted to prohibit fluoridation of water supplies of American cities is so remote that it can be almost completely discounted.

For that reason the City Council of Escanaba acted properly in placing its order for fluoridation equipment. Fluoridation has already been approved by the voters of Escanaba and by the City Council.

Of course, it would be unwise to commit an expenditure of $1150 for fluoridation equipment if there was any chance that federal legislation would preclude use of this equipment. The Council protected itself on that point by getting an agreement from the equipment manufacturer that the order could be cancelled in the event of this development.

A congressional committee has scheduled hearings on this proposal May 25 to 27. Almost certainly the bill will not be favorably acted upon by the committee. When the committee has made its report, the go-ahead signal to proceed with fluoridation can be given.

The opponents of fluoridation are sincere in their convictions but so were those who so vigorously opposed vaccinations in years past. Vaccines have been instrumental in stamping out some of the worst killers, such as smallpox. Fluoridation is beneficial to health, according to the tests that have been made.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The Defense Department is drawing up a budget for war in Indo-China . . . Pentagon planners privately figure that the "new look" is now a mere peak through the keyhole. The military budget will be upped at least $5,000,000,000 regardless of war in Indo-China . . . Senator Knowland, the GOP majority leader, has given the White House a green light on congressional cooperation for Indo-China "eventualities." Republicans are confident the Democrats will go along . . . If war does come it will be a nasty engagement in a jungled "green hell" where American troops are not used to fighting . . . against men who can disappear into the jungle nowhere . . . against people who have learned through the years to hate the so-called white conqueror . . . These jungles produce tropical products necessary to modern civilization. However, similar jungles much nearer home and controlled by friendlier people can produce the same products . . . so this might be a time to go back to cultivating our friends in Brazil, Ecuador, Colombia and their tropical products rather than getting bogged down in the jungles of Southeast Asia . . . It's a vitally important cross-road and should be pondered carefully.

IKE'S CABINET SECRETARY

Margaret Truman thinks her old man was a great President but a bum hotel clerk. On the recent New York-Washington trip, he insisted on making the hotel reservations himself. As a result, at the Mayflower, Margaret found herself one block away from Mr. and Mrs. T. She howled to reservations manager Truman and he finally changed her room . . . It hasn't been announced, but Eisenhower now has a special cabinet secretary with duties somewhat like those of the secretary of the British cabinet. He is Max Rabb, assistant to Sherman Adams, and his job is to correlate cabinet information and ride herd on cabinet officers . . . The job was set up when Ike got unhappy over conflicting statements by Charlie Wilson and Dulles over Indo-China, crossed wires by Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of Labor Mitchell. Such conflicts have been a headache for every recent President. FDR used to take Harry Hopkins and Harold Ickes on his yacht to iron out their battles. Truman used to assume the faux gas of his own wayward cabinet members . . . Ike, who likes a smooth-running general staff, doesn't relish differences in his cabinet, so the new secretary of the cabinet has the job of ironing them out . . . In England, the cabinet secretary is one of the most important men in the government, gets a salary as high as any cabinet member.

DIRKSEN'S STAR

Watch for Ev Dirksen, the soft-spoken solon from Illinois, to emerge as rival to Bill Knowland as Republican leader of the Senate. With the ailing Colonel McCormick becoming less and less a factor in Illinois politics, Dirksen is shifting away from McCormick isolation, and would like to snuggle closer to Eisenhower. Ike entrusted Ev with trying to shush up the Army-McCarthy row after Eisenhower himself failed in getting Army Secretary Stevens to compromise . . . Stevens got brainwashed once by the four Republican horsemen of the McCarthy committee and isn't going to get caught in one of their compromises again . . . On the day Stevens lunched with the four Senate horsemen and agreed temporarily to compromise the Army's position, Judge Albert Cohn, father of the precocious Roy, told friends: "It's all going to be over by noon. Stevens is whole to be rolled at lunchtime and the whole investigation will be dropped." . . . Stevens was rolled, and did agree to the McCarthy position—that one time. But never again.

WILL JOE BE BENCHED?

Many Democrats and labor leaders have been sitting on the Wisconsin sidelines in the Joe-Must-Go battle. Farmers and rural Republicans have rolled up most of the signatures in the McCarthy recall petition, with little help because the Democrats consider McCarthy a Republican problem. Or it may be because the Polish-Irish-Catholic population around Milwaukee, which makes up the backbone of the Democratic party, is pro-McCarthy. That was where Joe got a surprisingly big vote during his primary race. Catholic Democrats crossed over and voted Republican . . . The big Catholic vote is one reason GOP leaders responsible for winning a GOP Congress are not at all happy about the White House idea of benching McCarthy in the coming campaign. Congressman Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee for re-electing a Republican congress, says there is about 15 per cent of the voters in certain districts which McCarthy can carry for the GOP—if he makes a speech . . . Hitherto the Catholic vote has been preponderantly Democratic. McCarthy, they think, can swing it GOP.

IKE WILL STUMP

Ike has yielded to political leaders and has agreed to make a tour of doubtful states this fall. He'll speak in Illinois, Colorado, Idaho, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan and Minnesota—all areas where Republican senatorial candidates face tough battles . . . Ezra Taft Benson is the only cabinet member who hasn't been asked to campaign for Republican candidates this fall. Even in the nonagricultural east, Ezra isn't wanted . . . Congressman Wolverton of New Jersey has been swamped with letters from WCTU ladies demanding that liquor ads be banned from interstate commerce. This would mean banning liquor ads in most newspapers. Wolverton has received such a deluge that he'll hold hearings on the subject, but isn't likely to push any legislation this session . . . Louis Budenz says he's made more than $70,000 in lecture fees and magazine articles—most of it since he was the star witness for Senator McCarthy . . . Sen. Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, the original Eisenhower booster, isn't happy at the way things are going inside the Republican party. If the McCarthy split continues, he fears the party will be temporarily washed up . . . Even Congressman Hugh Scott, onetime chairman of the Republican National Committee, faces a tough reelection fight in Philadelphia.

When the school kids are out for spring vacation mother is always in for it.

Look Up

Gloomy Shade Of Bunker Homes Hangs Over Many German Cities

By CORINNE HARDESTY

WUPPERTAL, Germany — (NEA)—In the general brightness of a shingly recovered Germany there is a deep, black spot—the bunker dwellings. In these windowless piles of gray concrete, with cells for rooms, erected by Hitler as bomb shelters, hundreds of human beings still exist today. They can scarcely be said to live. In the squat shadow of these bunkers is some hope. Near two of them, in Wuppertal and Cologne, Quakers have helped bunker dwellers and their neighbors through a neighborhood center. Five bunkers are used for dwellings in Wuppertal. The same situation exists in other large German cities.

The American Friends Service Committee and the British Friends Service Council have cooperated in these centers with financial help, personnel, initiative and inspiration. German social workers now direct them.

Patterned generally after American and British settlement houses, it is a tribute to German eagerness that they have taken local root.

In Wuppertal the neighborhood center abuts directly onto the wall of one of the bunkers in this badly bombed industrial city. A concrete screen around the cave-like door keeps daylight out of the bunker, but no screen could keep in the bunker odor which permeates the surrounding area.

Here 450 people sleep, cook, eat, enduring the only family life they have. An inadequate fan system, occasionally stirs the dead air.

"When the children first come to play at the neighborhood center," explained Director Hilde Antritter, "they spend endless time just pressing their little noses against the windowpane—an unbelievable joy in the windowless lives of these children."

"Some of the children were born in the bunker," Antritter pointed out. "Others cannot remember their life before flight or other circumstances brought the family, or the remains of the family, to this hapless existence. No matter how long they come to games on the playground, or dance, or classes, the children never get the bunker smell out of their clothes."

In an effort to help get some of the bunker handicaps out of their minds, the center has a child guidance clinic. It also provides some occupational therapy groups. It gives some help to children who cannot keep up with their school classes when they have no place to study but the shelf-bed in the doorless cell of the bunker.

In the Cologne center, perhaps the brightest ray of light comes from the sewing room, one group among many which functions chiefly for children and young people from the surrounding area, including the nearby bunker dwellers.

A day nursery is filled with bunker youngsters. Youth groups dance, sing, study, or discuss every evening in the center's big recreation room.

The fabrics on which the women work are contributed by American manufacturers, through the AFSC, and by the German government. The garments they make are for the neediest among the bunker dwellers and for the center's household needs.

IN WINDOWLESS BUILDINGS like this bunker in Wuppertal, 4000 people have their only place to live. Originally built as air raid shelters, they lack even minimum requirements.

"The women are not keen to come to sew," said Anne Ketter, sewing director. "The Labor Exchange sends them for retraining or maybe just to find out if they are really willing to work. I help them learn to sew a good seam, but most of all I want them to learn to be useful to themselves and a help to others."

These women come in two groups of 20 each, alternating week by week with a cooking course they take elsewhere. Frau Ketter has three months in which to make them nimble seamstresses and good neighbors.

So They Say

Let's not make a fetish of security, whether in our private, national or international lives. It doesn't become a man; and it certainly doesn't become a great nation. — Henry Ford II.

This government believes that if all the free people who are threatened unite against the threat then the threat can be bread.—Secretary of State Dulles.

Altogether, since 1948, 105 of the principal leaders of the Communist Party have been indicted . . . (or) convicted of conspiring the overthrow of our government by force and violence.—Attorney General Brownell.

Money, fame, prestige—these were the false ideals I looked for. Then I found God. I became a Christian. I found that God is real and that my happiness depended on something more solid than the life I was living.—Colleen Townsend, ex-actress.

We have not been told what our country stands ready to do if the Reds strike all-out in Indo-China. Even the Republican majority in Congress is being kept in the dark.—Sen. Thos. A. Burke (D. Ohio).

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

WHAT THEY WEAR—The younger generation has been accused of so many crimes and offenses that criticism appears to be the only attention they receive.

Older folks are never satisfied with their offspring. They pick them apart, examine their conduct, their customs and their clothes—and find nothing to commend.

We have heard older persons express displeasure because teenage girls wear soiled shoes, blue jeans, shorts, flaring skirts, strapless formal; because high school boys have their hair cut short, or let it grow too long.

Nothing the youngsters wear is safe from the critical eye of the older generation—who forget the ludicrous peg top pants of the 1890's, the sheig haircuts and short skirts of the 1920's and the musclebound look of the ladies in their 1930 padded shoulders.

THEY ARE PEOPLE—This is a plea for better understanding of teenagers and an appeal to older folks to look at their own generation if they want to see examples both silly and offensive.

To make blanket accusations against all teenagers is unfair, just as it would be unfair to say that most of our middle age group is alcoholic and unfaithful in marriage because there are some who drink to excess and others who are divorced.

First, teenagers are people. They have as much right to respect, to courteous treatment, to fair play as any among us. If the oldsters will forget to treat them with the same consideration they give any other human being the youngsters will be grateful.

SHINING EXAMPLES—Young people have been called rude, disrespectful and worse.

But all you have to do is look about you and you will find shining examples of discourtesy among grownups, too.

The one I observed just recently was a well-dressed lady, somewhat on the over-stuffed side, who entered the store where three young girls were waiting at the counter for the attention of the clerk.

She sailed into the store, glared at the waiting customers in line, elbowed the three teenagers away from the counter with an insulting "Excuse me!" and began tapping for the clerk to hurry and attend to her highness's wants.

And then it did my heart good when the old gentleman who owned the store stepped up on the other side of the counter and said gently, "These young ladies were first, Ma'am."

The Madame snorted, tossed her head, stamped out. Now if that had been a teenager who had displayed such rudeness, the lady would have said sadly: "These young people! They're all alike."

HAVE CONFIDENCE—It should be encouraging to the critics of youth to see how well the younger generation is doing these days.

Boys and girls are at work in larger numbers than in many years in school-employer cooperative training programs; membership in the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts is at an all-time high; more are graduating from high school and more are going on to college than at any time in the nation's history.

In both the country and the city there is pronounced interest in 4-H Club programs for boys and girls. Boys are learning to become better farmers and girls are taught how to cook and to sew and make gardens.

That some of our adults have confidence in the youth of America is evidenced by these programs, which must have adult supervision and adult sponsorship.

BEING THEMSELVES—The business of growing up is never without its problems, as any older person will agree unless his memory is failing.

Young people today are faced with greater responsibilities and demands upon their time, their courage and their capacities than ever before. They are meeting their obligations very well—both in service to their community, their state and to humanity.

And when they go in for fads in dress it is like wearing a lodge pin or service club emblem—it identifies them as members in good standing in their own group. And this they prize most highly, for as young people they are being themselves as of this year 1954.

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

Today's word game is designed to test your ability to recognize words similar to one another in meaning. Below you will find two groups of ten words each. The first group is numbered 1, 2, 3, etc. The second group is lettered A, B, C, etc.

For each word in the first group you will find a word of almost the same meaning (a synonym) in the second group. Thus the word numbered 1 may mean practically the same as the word lettered F. Write this down as 1F. When you have written down all the answers, check against the correct pairings at the bottom.

True Prophets and False Ones

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

In the Israel of long ago there were good kings and evil kings, though I think the evil kings were in the majority. And some who began well, even like Solomon, turned out bad.

And prophets loomed large in the life of the times. But some were false prophets, as opposed to the true prophets, men of God, who fearlessly spoke as they believed and had honest vision.

Kings feared the true prophets and even the powerful King Jeroboam sent his wife in disguise to sound out the prophet Ahijah, when the King's son was sick (I Kings 14). The power that true prophets exercised led false prophets to prophesies for their own aggrandizement or gain.

Here was the difference: The true prophets were as honest as they were fearless, disdaining alike honor and reward. They believed that the Lord revealed certain things to them, and they were concerned only to speak truthfully what they believed to be the word of God (I Kings 22:14).

Elijah and his successor, Elisha, were the greatest prophets of the time, but there were other prophets of the same period who were equally honest, unselfseeking, and sincere.

Among these were Ahijah, who prophesied the rise to kingly power, and the downfall, of Jeroboam (I Kings 11:29-36, and 14:5-16), and Jehu, a prophet in the Kingdom of Judah, to whom references are made in I Kings 16:1, and in II Chronicles 19:2, and 20:34.

And there was Micaiah, a prophet of Israel, who appears in I Kings 22, and the almost identical chapter in II Chronicles 18.

But if the record concerning Micaiah is scant, in what a noble light he appears! King Ahab hated him because his prophecies were not pleasing, and he wanted to listen to 400 pleasant prophets, who assured him of victory against the Syrians.

But Jehoshaphat, his ally, King of Judah, wanted truth instead of the words of prophets who seem only anxious to please, so Ahab has to call Micaiah.

Standing against the false 400, Micaiah seemed at first to agree with them, apparently mocking the King. Then Micaiah gave the Kings the "what the Lord saith," which only he would speak.

Though prison awaited him his prophecy was of plain defeat and the scattering of the army of Israel in a battle in which Ahab was mortally wounded, though Jehoshaphat escaped.

Skilled Jills Hold Dinner And Election

Election of officers was held by the Skilled Jills Home Extension group at their annual club dinner Thursday evening at the Dells Supper Club. A social evening followed the dinner. Mrs. John Holland Jr. was named president and Mrs. Harold Olsen, secretary-treasurer.

During the evening, plans were made for a summer get-together at a member's cottage.

Evangelist Will Speak On Korea At Auditorium

The Rev. Everett Swanson of Chicago will show colored movies and speak on Korea Sunday at the William Oliver Auditorium in the Junior High School. The service will begin at 7:30 p. m.

The colored sound film, "Wrath Praising Him," which will be shown, portrays the suffering of the people of Korea. Ten million war refugees live in shacks as a meager protection against the bitter winters. The film describes how 200,000 children have been left orphaned by the fighting. Of this number, 150,000 are sleeping in the streets and fields begging for their food.

Kim Hyong Do, the Chief Chaplain of the Ministry of National Defense of South Korea, extended a personal invitation to Mr. Swanson to come to Korea as an evangelist to that nation's armed forces. The evangelist found that over 90% of the men had no religion whatsoever. When the challenge was given to them by Mr. Swanson, 30,000 indicated their desire to become Christians.

Everyone is invited to hear this eyewitness account of conditions in Korea. There is no admission charge. A free will offering will be taken for the Korean civilians and foreign missions.

Conditions Listed For Korea Unity

By EDDY GILMORE
GENEVA (AP)—South Korea finally agreed today to elections throughout the divided Korean Peninsula but laid down conditions which the Communists are sure to reject.

In a speech before the 19-nation conference on Korean peace, South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung-Tai outlined a 14-point plan for the unification of his country and the Communist-controlled north.

At least two of the conditions he set forth for the all-Korean elections were expected to be bitterly opposed by the Communists.

One of these was that any elections must be carried out under United Nations supervision and that the U. N. must certify the election results. The Communists have ruled out any U. N. role in Korean peace plans. Another is that all Chinese Communist troops must be withdrawn from North Korea at least one month before the elections, but that some U. N. forces should remain in Korea until a unified government achieves effective control over the entire peninsula.

Pyun called for an agreement that "the integrity and independence of the unified, independent and Democratic Korea shall be guaranteed by the United Nations."

Furnace Backfires In Manistique Dairy

No one was injured and damage to the Hohlolik Dairy building, Manistique, was slight when an oil furnace backfired at 7 a. m. today. The smoke stack, 18 inches in diameter, was crumpled by the explosion and the portion of the smoke stack inside the dairy had to be replaced.

The furnace is automatic, and it is believed that a shorted electron in the mechanism caused it to backfire. It provides the heat for the building and is used for sterilizing and other processes.

Jerome Hohlolik was the only person in the plant at that time. He was washing milk bottles and quickly turned off the boiler valves, which were operating under 90 pounds of pressure. No steam escaped which prevented extensive damage.

No milk had yet arrived at the dairy, located at the corner of Deer St. and Chippewa Ave., and no products were lost. Soot from the explosion blackened the interior of the dairy, and Hohlolik was covered with soot. Three hours after the explosion, the dairy began operating.

This is a day set aside for emphasizing the meaning of Christianity in rural life; for invoking God's blessing upon the seeds, the fruits of the earth, and the cultivators of the soil, as well as for consideration of justice for agriculture.

A special order of service based upon one of the ancient liturgies of the Church will be used both at St. Stephen's and at Gethsemane and all rural families, whether church members or not, will be most welcome to attend.

In connection with these services the youth of the parish who are graduating will also be honored, and a pot-luck dinner will be served then at noon at St. Stephen's Lutheran Church parlors.

GOP Must Buck Tradition In Bid To Strengthen Control Of House

(By Congressional Quarterly)

WASHINGTON (CQ)—Can the Republicans, in the November election, break the modern tradition of mid-term losses in the House membership of the majority party?

Republicans are confident that it can be done, a Congressional Quarterly canvass of political leaders shows. They feel the GOP can change the pattern, retain control, and gain enough seats to bring its House membership from 215 to about 225.

Democrats were able to score a mid-term gain in House seats only once, in 1934, during about two decades of political control. And if the November contest is a "pocketbook election" based on a softening economy, the Democrats not only expect to take over the House but to do so by a handsome margin. Their slogan: "54 more in '54."

Not since 1918 has a majority party gone into a general election with a margin of House control as slim as that the GOP now holds. The GOP controls the House by a bare majority plus one. House membership is 219 Republicans, 215 Democrats and one independent so a net loss of two seats would mean loss of control. In April, 1918, the House also had a four-seat spread between the major parties.

With President Eisenhower as lead-off man on the ballot in 1952, the Republicans carried only 221 (and subsequently lost two in special elections). Only three Republicans, Charles A. Wolverton (N. J.), John P. Saylor (Pa.) and Allan Oakley Hunter (Calif.), won House districts where the President failed, and he carried 79 districts which Republican Congressional nominees did not win. But the President isn't going to be on the 1954 ticket and he doesn't plan to campaign for individual candidates. He will ask the voters to support the Republican ticket and his "dynamic and progressive" program.

167 Close Districts

There were an unusually large number of doubtful and marginal districts in 1952 on the basis of election percentages. Eighty-eight districts were won by less than 55 per cent of the vote—41 by Republicans, 46 by Democrats, and one by an independent. Seventy-nine districts, 55 GOP and 24

Democratic, were won by from 55 to 60 per cent of the vote. The bulk of the districts which are traditionally close are now held by Republicans, and Democrats say that under favorable conditions they can win about 40 of them.

Republicans believe that individual candidates will be the most important single factor in the 1954 Congressional races. The majority of the GOP House membership has been elected in the past largely on local, rather than national, issues.

In areas where President Eisenhower carried a large number of Democratic and independent voters with him in 1952, the National Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional committee will be active in 1954. This group seeks non-Republican and young-voter support for GOP Congressional nominees who back the President and his program. NCECC plans to be active in 111 districts this year.

Parties' View Points

Republicans expect to retain the four districts in Virginia and North Carolina which they won with the President's help in 1952, and are counting on picking up two districts which they lost under unusual conditions. The First Kansas was lost in the House (though carried by President Eisenhower) because of a local dam controversy; and the Sixth New Jersey went Democratic in a special election in 1953 after an intra-party Republican dispute.

Republicans are stressing "peace and prosperity," the end of the Korean war, tax cuts, a return to a free economy, communism in government, and the over-all Eisenhower program. Events in the white-hot Indo-China conflict may put a crimp in "peace" as a GOP campaign issue.

Privately, the Democrats are far more optimistic about the coming election than the Republicans. If 1954 turns out to be "a pocketbook election" they believe they will make real inroads in normally Republican suburban areas where unemployment is felt immediately. And they are optimistic about capitalizing everywhere on "farmer's discontent" with the Eisenhower farm program.

If unemployment continues at present levels, the Democrats believe they can take several GOP districts, in such politically potent states as Washington, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Michigan, Indiana and California.

Democrats are stressing unemployment, "high interest rate," declining farm income, the "dim-out of public power," and "big business" government.

Retirements always offer the opposite party an opportunity for pickups and so far this year Democrats, definitely plan to leave the House this year. At least two others are considering retirement.

Opportunity for added seats would come also if Hawaii or Alaska were granted statehood, increasing the House membership to as much as 438 with admission of both territories. A Senate-passed bill to bring the two areas into the Union is stalled in the House, which has approved statehood for Hawaii only.

Air Force Opens Up Reserve Commissions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nearly 5,000 college seniors who faced Air Force enlistment or the Army draft now have a new chance for Air Force reserve and National Guard commissions as second lieutenants.

The Air Force changed direction Friday and offered commissions to 4,840 college men with air ROTC training. These were men who had been found to be physically unqualified or who were unwilling to become pilots.

The National Geographic Society estimates that the crown jewels of England might be valued at 80 million dollars.

Boss Of Teamsters On Both Sides In Michigan Politics

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING (AP)—Like a stocky handsome Colossus, Jimmy Hoffa, the Teamsters' Union boss, straddles both the Republican and Democratic camps in the 1954 elections.

With one foot he appears to be trying to muddy up Gov. Williams' political strategy. With the other he reportedly is trying to hook U. S. Sen. Homer Ferguson, a Republican, to re-election.

That would be quite a combination for an ordinary man, but no one pretends that James S. Hoffa is an ordinary man. High in the councils of Teamster President Dave Beck and a little dictator to thousands of Midwest truck drivers, Hoffa is quite capable of attempting, and possibly succeeding, in such a subtle campaign.

He's For Ferguson

To politicians, there seems to be little doubt but that Hoffa is working to re-elect Ferguson. This, in itself, is unusual for a labor leader because the best of them are willing to back anyone but Ferguson.

Just why Hoffa wants to keep Ferguson's snowy locks bobbing around Capitol Hill for another six years is a major political question.

A nationally-syndicated gossip

columnist has spread one version of the tie-up and the politicians are accepting it as gospel.

This story says that Rep. Clare Hoffman (R-Mich.) was called off his investigation of Teamster union activities in Detroit by persons high in the Eisenhower administration. Hoffman himself asserted that, without naming any names, But the story is that Hoffa is supporting Ferguson, either in gratitude or in the hope of having a friend at court if a congressional committee ever again delves into his union's business.

The story may be a complete fabrication, but Hoffa will have to do an awful lot of denying to convince politicians that he isn't in Ferguson's corner for some reason.

Motives Hazy

Crossing over to the Democratic camp, Hoffa appears to be tossing his attorney, George S. Fitzgerald of Detroit, into the race for lieutenant governor.

This, of course, is an outright challenge to Gov. Williams. The governor wants his former legal adviser, Philip A. Hart of Birmingham, to have that job.

Here, again, Hoffa's motives are cloudy. Almost alone among the leaders of organized labor, Hoffa has been sour on Williams for several years.

The best guess is that Williams hasn't done something, or everything, that Hoffa wants done. And politicians know that if you deal with Jimmy you take orders.

Politicians think that Hoffa is backing a long shot in Fitzgerald. They reason thus:

If he can elect Fitzgerald, his man might be the logical person to step into party leadership when and if Williams goes on to greener pastures. Then Jimmy would have his muscular forearm right around the Democratic Party's neck.

Hoffa may be able to make trouble in Democratic ranks, although the Williams' folks don't think so. But there are lots of Democrats mad at Williams, or mad at his functionaries, and Hoffa may be able to present them with a rallying point.

20 Years In Prison
For Murder Of Wife

CHICAGO (AP)—A 27-year-old man pictured as a philandering Romeo is under sentence of 20 years imprisonment for the murder of his wife.

Judge John T. Dempsey imposed the sentence Friday on Vincent Cucci after denying his motion for a new trial and ruling that Cucci also must stand trial on indictments charging him with the murder of his three children.

Mrs. Anne Cucci, 28, and the couple's three young children, Vincent Jr., 9, Virginia, 8, and Angelina, 4, were found dead in their fire-razed flat Dec. 5. All four had been shot in the head.

Carol Amora, 20, a state witness, said she was the mother of a child Cucci fathered and that she and Cucci had lived together.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Malnar and daughter, Sharon, returned home Wednesday from Detroit where they spent a week with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Eugene Girard of Little Lake stopped enroute from Saginaw to spend a few days with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Harris.

Jack Taylor and two children, Bobby and Sara, of Taylor Center, are spending a few days here with Jack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Taylor.

Honored At Shower

Mrs. Arnold Drukenmiller Jr., was the recipient of many nice gifts at a pink and blue shower held in her honor Tuesday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Maria Latvala. Twenty-five guests enjoyed a social evening and luncheon. Mrs. Isaac Maki and Mrs. Waino Laine arranged the party.

ing bill for debate early next week, approved raising from $16,000 to $18,000 the maximum mortgage insurable by the federal housing administration, on one and two family homes. It also raised the repayment period to 30 years.

The group refused to okay an Eisenhower proposal that homes costing $7,000 or less and built as a result of slum clearance have 40-year mortgages with no down payments. Instead it approved 30-year mortgages with a maximum of $350 down.

TAXES—The Senate Finance Committee continued closed sessions to draft a bill implementing administration plans for a big overhaul of the nation's tax laws. The House already has approved such a measure.

FOREIGN TRADE—Faced with strong congressional opposition, the President postponed his plea for action this year on a broad program to bolster free world trade. Instead, he asked for renewal of the present reciprocal trade act for one year.

Major Measures Waiting

MCCARTHY-ARMY—The McCarthy-Army hearings moved under a cloud Monday when Eisenhower ordered administration officials not to testify about executive branch conferences involving the dispute. The Senate Investigations subcommittee abruptly recessed its public hearings until Monday to ponder the order, issued on the ground that "in-the-family" discussions of presidential advisers must be kept confidential.

LEGISLATIVE STATUS—Passed by the House and awaiting Senate

Action: Use of wiretapped evidence in security cases, tax revision. Passed by the Senate and awaiting House action: Proposed constitutional amendment limiting Supreme Court membership and making retirement of federal judges mandatory at 75. In committee: Taft-Hartley Labor law revision, post rate increases, foreign aid financing, farm price supports, and pay raises for members of Congress, federal judges and most federal employees. The House has approved statehood for Hawaii and the Senate has passed a bill combining statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

Hide Radiators With Hardboard Covers

The hardboard-covered, wood-frame radiator enclosure illustrated above is attractive and will increase a radiator's efficiency.

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Hardboard is an outstanding product for the "do-it-yourself" trade. This composition material has a hard, glossy grainless surface that is highly resistant to abrasion and wear, and yet can be readily worked with wood-working tools.

One of the many uses for this versatile material is in the making of radiator enclosures.

We're all familiar with the old-style home radiators. Hardly things of beauty, they do little for the home—outside of heating it. But dressed up in new outfits, they can hold up their heads of steam proudly.

For, concealed behind properly designed enclosures, radiators not only take on a more pleasing appearance, becoming furniture pieces, they also heat more efficiently. That fact is confirmed by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau, representing the industry.

What constitutes a properly designed radiator enclosure? First, it should be pointed out that it must provide for a higher temperature near the floor, a higher average temperature in the living zone of a room (below breathing level) and a lower temperature near the ceiling. This latter reduces heat loss at the ceiling, saving you money.

A radiator enclosure should offer a minimum of resistance to the flow of air over the radiator, providing convected warmth. Don't cover up so much of the heating unit that air cannot circulate freely over and around the tubes. Adequate openings for it to "breathe" are essential near the floor and at the top of the enclosure.

Another essential is a shield at the back of the enclosure to prevent undue heat loss through the walls. A shield can be made of aluminum foil tacked to hardboard or plywood, of foil-backed gypsum wallboard, or of some other insulating materials.

A well-designed enclosure actually concentrates and more purposefully directs heat into a room for maximum heating comfort, says the industry.

A three-sided radiator cover that will fit neatly around an offending radiator, and which can be moved for dusting and cleaning, can be made simply by building a skeleton wood frame to which hardboard panels are attached. The panels can be secured to the frame with nails, screws or glue, or all three.

To build an enclosure with

Window Placing
Tricky Problem
In House Planning

Deciding on windows can be one of the trickiest problems encountered when planning to remodel or build a house. There are more styles and types of windows on the market today than you can shake a stick at. Some open, some don't—even when they are supposed to. The movable kinds range from finely precision devices to near gadgets, as you probably have observed.

Well, so much has been said recently about various metal windows and so many people prefer wood sash windows that a look at real modern millwork reveals some big surprises for most of us.

For instance, have you noticed that the old-fashioned sash weight is gone? Have you seen the wood framed, wood sash windows that you can wash in the middle of the living room floor? And have you heard of "treated" windows?

These are all on hand at lumber yards handling fine millwork.

THE SASH WEIGHT may be mourned by writers of murder mysteries, but not by householders who have tried to cope with a broken sash cord. These clumsy devices have been replaced by spring balances, carefully matched to the weight of the window for easy operation.

The spring balances don't take up as much space as the sash weight arrangement, so window frames are much narrower than they used to be. Narrow frames prove to be better looking and result in more wall area, more glass area in a window, or both.

WASHING the outside of a window in the middle of the living room floor is much less of a trick nowadays than risking your neck by sitting out on the sill. New double-hung wood sash windows are made to be taken out at will. A flick of the finger a slight push and a gentle lift does it. Various built-in devices make it possible.

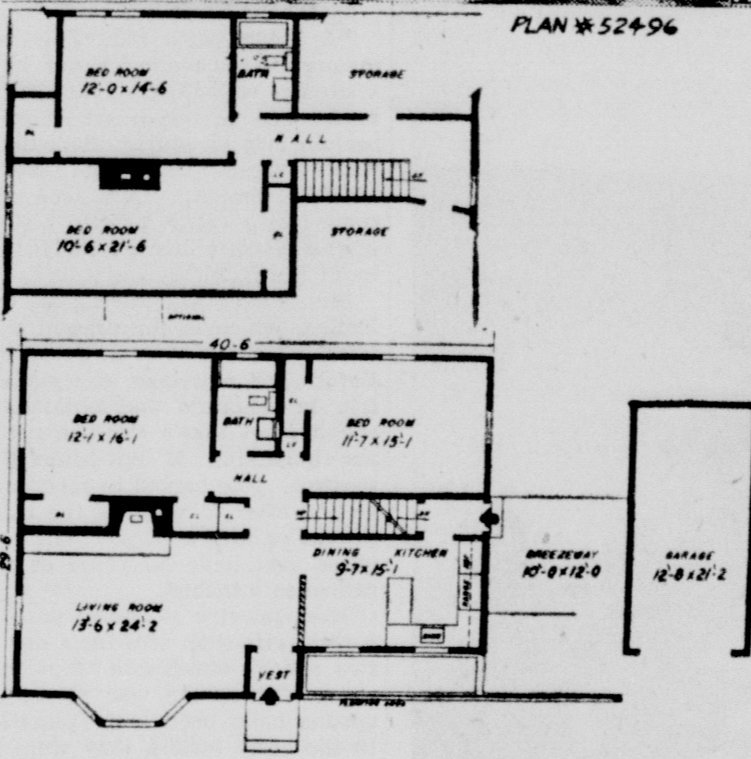

Among other improvements are better methods of weatherstripping. A great many modern wood sash windows are manufactured as units. The sash and frame are matched to each other and used as one assembly. This permits installing weatherstripping at the factory by carefully engineered methods. Complete units are easier and less expensive to install.

A "TREATED" WINDOW is one that has been immersed in water-repellent preservative. This protects the wood from moisture and holds shrinking, swelling, warping and rotting to a negligible minimum. The treatment does not discolor the wood and it serves as an excellent base for paint.

Windows and doors, of course, are the principal moving parts of a house. So experience has been a great teacher for the millwork manufacturers. About half a century ago, almost any handy soft wood was used for millwork. But when abrasive wear caused some woods to splinter and disintegrate in other ways, research began.

The result has been that for more than 40 years ponderosa

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
ADDING ROOMS for a growing family becomes an economical project in a house like this. It is planned for expansion. The main part of the house can be built first with attic unfinished. Breezeway and garage can be added. Then the house can be enlarged four ways. Basement and attic provide space for several extra rooms. Breezeway and garage also can be converted for future rooms. This is Plan 52496 designed by Architect Herbert C. Struppman for the Archway Press, 117 West 48th St., New York 26, N. Y. There are 1,215 square feet on the first floor, 685 feet upstairs. (Further information and blueprints available from architect.)

pine has taken the lead among materials used for quality windows and doors. This wood now produced principally in about nine Western states, won the race in window frame making because its soft texture made smooth and accurate machining practicable.

ONE REASON wood framed windows hold their popularity is because of the insulating capacity of wood. On cold winter days, metal window frames drip with condensation. Double glazing may insulate the panes enough to keep the glass clear, but metal frames still "sweat."

This is more or less inevitable. When you want heat conduction such as for pots and pans on the stove, you use metal, not wood. The refrigerating data book of the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers shows that in a given length of time, aluminum of a given thickness and area will transmit from 1360 to 1780 times as much heat as a piece of pine of the same dimensions.

Of course, everything seems to have its advantages and disadvantages. There is no denying that metal window frames are thin and narrow. But apparently you can't write pine millwork out of the picture.

Admiral Says Russia
Has 400 Submarines

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy has estimated Russian submarine strength at more than 400—a figure 50 higher than the Navy has used for several years.

Rear Adm. W. G. Schindler, assistant chief of naval operations, disclosed the new estimate in picturing "chaos," he said could result if a Russian submarine penetrated an American harbor filled with war shipping. "Think what would happen if the explosive were a nuclear weapon," he said.

He said also that American submarines could approach an enemy coast and launch missiles "which may contain atomic warheads."

The admiral's remarks were prepared for an Armed Forces Chemical Assn. meeting here at which other invited speakers included the Army's chief chemical officer, Maj. Gen. William M. Creasy, and Maj. Gen. M. R. Nelson, commander of the Eastern air defense forces.

Creasy said that in the event of war "we must assume that an enemy will use some form of chemical - biological - radiological warfare," and he urged the American people to practice now in the use of equipment that he said will be essential for survival in a time of disaster.

He said the chemical corps had developed a comparatively inexpensive shelter for small families, made of fiber board. He said also that a considerable degree of protection against chemical and radiological attacks could be provided by cyclone-type cellars covered by coddled earth.

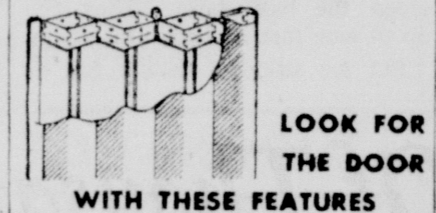

Gen. Nelson said in prepared remarks that the job of developing an atomic power plant for airplanes will "overshadow other military applications of atomic power for the next few years."

Election Is Won
By Rhee's Party

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee's Liberal party Friday clinched control of the South Korean National Assembly by winning 109 of 203 seats in the one-house legislature.

Election officials said returns from all districts showed that Independent candidates won in 74 districts. Democratic Nationalists in 15, Korean Nationalists in 3 and the Korean Nationalist Society in 2.

The victory was at least partially a personal one for Rhee. His party did not control the last Assembly and he appealed to the people for a working majority in the next house.

Apparently the estimated eight million voters—about 90 per cent of the electorate—gave him what he asked. And control of the Assembly could lead to an extended term as president for Rhee. Only the Assembly can change a constitutional clause ending his term in 1956.

Perch Fishing Receives Big Play; Now Attention Turns To Walleyes

There is fishing in the Delta County area in every season of the year, but spring perch fishing attracts more local attention and participation than the smelt run or the opening of the season on the famed Bay de Noc walleyes.

Perch may be taken at any season in the Great Lakes and connecting waters, but it is in the month of May that perch are at the biting best and biggest. This spring has been no exception and fishermen from the shore and boats have been taking perch in large numbers at Escanaba, Ontonagon, Gladstone, Nahma, Masonville, Garden and Fayette.

Van's Harbor at Garden usually opens the perch season each spring with a run that attracts hundreds of fishermen. Nahma is considered another favored perch fishing spot.

For the Family

The big "jumbo" perch have been less plentiful this spring than in many years, fishermen report. But the perch have made up in numbers what they lacked in size.

Minnows are given top place on the bait list by perch fishermen, and the sport itself is one that appeals to most members of the family. Children as well as parents can catch perch and often the fishing trip is combined with a family outing and picnic.

The walleye season on Big and Little Bays de Noc opened yesterday and attracted a considerable number of visiting anglers, including several from Wisconsin. Strong winds kept most of the boats close to shore or in sheltered areas off Masonville in Little Bay de Noc.

Walleye Opener

While there is no size limit on perch, the walleye fisherman is prohibited from taking walleyes or northern pike that are less than 13 inches in length. There has been no change from last year in the limit of walleyes—10 in one day or not more than 10 in the aggregate if both walleyes and northern pike are taken.

June bug spinners with worms,

Perch Fishing at Gladstone

minnows, or the flatfish are rated favorite walleye lures for bay waters.

At the opening of the walleye season the fish are usually found in shallower water and the best fishing ground is reportedly the upper portion of Little Bay de Noc. Later in the spring and early summer the walleyes will move into deeper water.

Northern Battlers

Other favorite walleye fishing spots are off Breezy Point and Ford River shore south to the Misery Bay area.

The angler interested in a battle first and food second should try tangling with a northern pike. These pugnacious fighters with plenty of sharp teeth and talent for breaking lines and poles will be encountered almost anywhere along the bay shore. They run up to four feet or better in length.

But for sit-down fishing fun on a sunny day, when a fisherman can lean his back against a dock piling and enjoy himself waiting for a bite, perch fishing tops them all. They may not be big or ferocious—but they're fun.

Mrs. George Stuart Has Interesting Collection Of Sterling Silver Spoons

By JOAN DESHAMBO

"A hobby with many pleasant memories attached to places I have visited is collecting sterling silver coffee spoons which symbolize a certain city or tourist attraction", Mrs. George C. Stuart, 1805 S. 16th St., stated. "Most of the spoons also carry a little history of the place, either on the handle or in the bowl."

Mrs. Stuart began her spoon collection, which at the present time totals 65, about 15 or 20 years ago. Before her marriage, she made a trip to Colorado and obtained a spoon from Pike's Peak, marking the beginning of an interesting pastime. She turned to spoon collecting after thinking of the many souvenirs that a person will purchase that have no value or significance attached.

Most jewelry stores or possibly a little gift shop will have one or two spoons obtainable for purchase. Since the war years, the spoons have been more plentiful; in the early forties, they were almost impossible to find. During special occasions, such as centennials, Mrs. Stuart finds the spoons easy to obtain.

Variety of Spoons

"One thing a person must be cautious about in this type of collecting is that the spoon sold actually is sterling silver," Mrs. Stuart warned. "A person who is interested in sterling is not too easily fooled, though."

Mrs. Stuart's family had moved a lot, and the collection was always easy to move, and it is easy to show people. On many occasions, she has used the spoons for various reasons. She also has displayed them several times at hobby shows.

Of the 65 spoons, Mrs. Stuart had a wonderful variety of spoons, most of which she obtained through her travels and several which she has received as gifts. The spoons with the open handles are her preference, but they are not always obtainable. Sometimes she gets them; sometimes she does not.

The most unusual spoons which she owns in her collection are the Easter spoon, the Columbus spoon, a French spoon and a Dutch spoon, all gifts. The Easter spoon is the most beautiful in design. It contains a scene of the resurrection with a background of lilies and bells, and in the bowl is a cross surrounded by a crown of thorns with the engraved words, "No Cross" and "No Crown".

Spoon of Columbus

A spoon of Columbus discovering America is owned by Mrs. Stuart. The spoon contains a picture of the landing of Columbus, in the bowl, and pictured on the handle is Columbus atop a globe of the Western hemisphere. A much larger spoon than the rest is the Dutch spoon which Mr. Stuart brought back from Germany, where he was stationed during the war. The scene on the spoon portrays a woman spinning with the engraved words, "De Spinster", underneath. A Dutch girl with two milk pails is shown at the handle top. Gold dipped over silver with a picture of Nice in enamel makes an unusual French spoon for a collection.

Spoons from Mexico and Canada have been personally obtained by Mrs. Stuart during her travels. The Mexican spoon is a little different due to the fact that the weight of Mexican silver is lighter. Almost all of the Canadian spoons carry the Canadian symbol, the maple leaf; although each spoon patterns the leaf in different ways. Also the name of the place is situated in the bowl in the Canadian spoons. Mrs. Stuart obtained a coronation spoon during the time of Queen Elizabeth's crowning in 1953 in Canada. The spoon pictures the Queen and the crown.

Included in one of the first trips during which Mrs. Stuart started collecting spoons was her honeymoon trip when they visited Washington D. C., Mt. Vernon, Va., and several other places.

Two World Fair spoons are included in Mrs. Stuart's collection. The Chicago World's Fair in 1934, and the New York World's Fair in 1939. These spoons portray "a century of progress." She also has another spoon from New York City, but this one pictures the Statue of Liberty.

Historical Spoons

Several historical spoons are the ones from Concord, Mass.; Buena Park, Calif., Black Hills, S. D., and Mackinac Island. The Minute Man statue in Concord is reprinted on that spoon, the Buena Park spoon shows Knott's Berry Farm, which began many years ago on a small plot of land and has grown tremendously, every one is familiar with the Rush-more Memorial, the heads of four of the United States presidents, Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson and Theodore Roosevelt, which are carved in stone and is pictured on the handle of the spoon from the Black Hills, and Mackinac Island spoon also shows history with its picture of the old blockhouse.

Mrs. George Stuart and Her Spoon Collection

The same design has been used on spoons from altogether different locations. The spoons of Idaho Falls, Ida., and Tanana, Alaska, have the same design, showing a gold prospector in one scene, his rocker in another, and his tools in the third scene. Two scenes, the miner's friend and the miner's dinner, are pictured on the back of the spoon handle. Spoons from the National Grand Canyon, the Smokey Mountains and Timberline Lodge, Ore., all have identical handles with the only difference being the picture and the slogan.

Tying in symbols of their states are Oklahoma, which pictures the great seal of the state of Oklahoma, 1907; Las Angeles, Calif., portraying the city hall; Lansing, Mich., and Helena, Mont., with a scene of their capital building, and South Dakota, which has the symbol of the state of arms, 1889.

Also symbolic of their place is the artist's palate and brush on the spoon for Laguna Beach, Calif., which is famous for its artist colony. Both Pendleton, Ore., and Casper, Wyo., spoons have pictures of Indians. The huge auditorium at Minneapolis, Minn., where the aquennial water festival, is always held is portrayed on that spoon and bridges familiarize the spoons for San Francisco, Calif., and the Royal Gorge, Colo. Last but not least, Escanaba's spoons show an Indian, typical of the early history of the town.

"The hobby is fascinating," Mrs. Stuart ended, "and my only worry now is to try not to duplicate spoons because many times we travel through the same towns."

Puts High Price On Personal Spite

NEW BEDFORD, N. J. (P) — Fred Lowitz paid $2,500 for a strip of land worth about $100 by his own estimate. He just wanted to be sure the 30-foot lot didn't fall into the hands of a neighbor. The neighbors haven't spoken to each other for years. Their homes are on adjacent sides of the strip offered for sale by the township. The tract was formerly a railroad right of way.

"I would have paid up to $5,000 for it just to make sure they didn't get it," Lowitz said.

Selecting Winners Of Thousands Of Dollars In Scholarships Is Painstaking Task At High School

In the course of a few days a number of Escanaba High School seniors will learn, with great satisfaction to themselves, their parents and those who through the years have watched them develop, that they have been selected to receive monetary awards that will enable them to continue their schooling in some higher institution of learning.

The amount available for these awards has not been determined but it is at least $10,000. The number of beneficiaries is also not known because the financial needs of the students will vary and the number of awards is subject to the number of students who can be accommodated.

The amount of money available for this scholarship fund represents, for the most part, interest accruing on four endowments amounting in the aggregate to at least $650,000. The foundations consist of bequests of $10,000 each from estates of H. W. Reed and A. J. Young, $50,000 from the Catherine Bonifas foundation and nearly $600,000 to be realized from the John P. Norton estate—a foundation known as the Anna C. Norton fund.

Other Scholarships

This assistance to worthy and well qualified students is not to be confused with scholarships in the generally accepted sense of the word.

For years colleges and universities have made a practice of granting scholarships to students on the basis of high scholastic records. These, providing free tuition and sometimes cash awards, usually go to valedictorians and salutatorians—sometimes to outstanding athletes or to those who have distinguished themselves in other ways. Similar scholarships on much the same basis are made available through private scholarships from some private enterprise, fraternal, church, service organization or the like.

They all serve admirably in helping worthy students to continue their educations, but they have certain limitations that are not found in the local foundation award setup. Chief among these is the fact that if a student is awarded a scholarship and he doesn't avail himself of it, it cannot be passed on to someone else whose scholastic rating was not quite as high.

Student Must Apply

Every student who wishes to avail himself of the locally endowed fund, in addition to being able to qualify himself for enrollment in higher schools of learning, must make application for the award. And in making out formal application he must submit data relative to his family and himself, his personal activities in and out of school, financial data covering the amount of assistance he may count on from the family and the educational plans he has in mind. In addition the applicant must agree to accept the award and the responsibilities it entails, if it is granted.

Evaluation Intricate

In order to determine each student's worthiness and fitness for the awards, his qualifications are studied from as many angles as possible. An intricate system has been devised to enable those who pass on the students to arrive at as near a just and equitable appraisal as possible.

To begin with, an awards committee of seven members has been appointed to evaluate the qualifications of each student to be considered. The work is strictly confidential and the identity of each member is kept a strict secret. These precautions are taken to avoid any chance of high pressure effort on the part of people who may be over zealous in behalf of some certain student.

Two very important evaluations taken into consideration are those made by the fellow senior class students and those of a committee composed of members of the high school faculty who are familiar with each student's personality, capability, attitudes, aptitudes, perseverance, etc.

Regulations governing this voting by seniors and faculty are:

1. Each member of the faculty shall check, on a list of eligible applicants, not more than ten names.
2. Each member of the senior class shall check not more than five names.

The Faculty Committee on Scholarships shall evaluate the voting as follows:

The total vote by the faculty for each applicant shall be multiplied to a degree that will make the teacher vote equal to that of the student vote. If there are twenty teachers voting and 100 students, each teacher's vote will count for 5.

The applicants shall then be ranked on the basis of the total weighted vote; the one receiving the greatest number shall be first, the next greatest second, etc.

Knottiest Problem

"The knottiest problem," says E. E. Edick, high school principal who appointed the awards committee, "is to determine who will be best served by the awards." There are so many things to consider in this respect that a final decision can come only after long hours of discussion and close figuring.

According to the rules governing the selection:

Applicants will be required to take tests showing their fitness and ability to carry work at the college level. Such tests must be recognized by authorities in the field of testing and selected by the Faculty Committee on Scholarships. Those recommended are:

1. "The Differential Aptitude Battery of Tests."
2. "Essential High School Content Battery."

The Faculty Committee shall rank applicants on each test; the one receiving the best score first, the next best score second, etc.

Financial Need

It must be ascertained whether a student with no other financial backing than the scholarship money can hope to successfully pursue his studies. It must be determined how much assistance the student can get from home and how much the family is willing to sacrifice for his education. Concerning this, the following rules have been set forth:

Need shall be classified into four categories:

(a) Could be financed by parents with little or no sacrifice, and given a value of eight (8) points.

(b) Could be financed with some sacrifice, and given a value of four (4) points.

(c) Could be financed with great sacrifice, and given a value of two (2) points.

(d) Family destitute and could not assist student, and given a value of one (1) point.

The faculty committee shall submit to the awards committee established by the Board of Education, the applications of all candidates for the purpose of allocating awards as set forth in Section VIII.

Costs of courses vary. An engineering course, for instance costs far in excess of what a course in some trade school would come to, or in the case of a girl student—what a nurse's training course would cost and these matters would also have a bearing on considerations.

This matter of finances is determined from the reports which students must make when applying. This information is treated in strictest confidence.

Establishing Priority

The Faculty committee shall make a composite ranking of all applicants as follows:

1. The rankings on the basis of student and faculty voting.
2. Rankings on the basis of tests given.
3. Rankings on the basis of need.

Applicants shall then be ranked on the basis of the totals found in step 1 above; the applicant having the smallest total shall be ranked first, the next smallest ranked second, etc.

Committee Approval

A priority list of rankings shall be submitted to the Faculty committee for approval. A three-fourths vote shall be necessary for approval. Should there be too great a divergence in the findings of the various committee members, the ratings shall be discussed and further votes taken until there is a reasonable unanimity in the findings.

Allocation of Awards

The awards committee, as established by the Board of Education, shall determine the awards to be given to those ranking highest on the priority list. In no case shall an award be given to an applicant who ranks lower than the total number of money grants available for any particular year. Any changes in the priority list must be made by the Faculty Committee on Scholarships.

In the event circumstances make it impossible for a recipient to use a money grant, the highest ranking applicant on the priority list who did not receive an award shall be considered the first alternate, etc. The Awards Committee shall determine the amount which shall go to the alternate or alternates.

Forty-Eight Applicants

Mr. Edick states that 48 Escanaba High School Seniors have made application for awards. The number who will be successful is still a matter of conjecture. The findings of the Awards Committee will be made known on Honor Day, shortly before commencement.

At any rate, few communities in America can show more encouragement to bright and promising high school students that Escanaba is offering today.

Says Mr. Edick: "These awards should not only stimulate students to greater effort at school, but they should be a source of encouragement to people of moderate means and give them hope that their children now have an opportunity to acquire those advantages that higher education gives."

These awards are not only meant to help students through college, but may also be used by those going to approved trade schools, technical schools, business colleges and other institutions providing training in keeping with the student's ambitions.

E. H. S. Graduates Are Doing Well In College, School Survey Shows

A comparison of grades received by Escanaba freshmen students at the University of Michigan in comparison with grades received by all freshmen is particularly interesting. It shows that Escanaba students do not receive as many "A" grades as the average but their B or better average is better.

This percentage breakdown for the 1952-53 Escanaba freshmen at U-M compared with the average grades of all freshmen in 1951-52, the last year complete figures were available as follows:

Grades	Escanaba Freshmen	All U-M Freshmen
A	8.3	10.6
B	47.8	30.1
C	39.5	41.9
D	4.1	12.4
E	.....	4.7
Inc.	.....	3

The percentage grades received by Escanaba freshmen at the four institutions receiving the majority of EHS graduates follow:

Michigan — 8.3% A, 47.8% B, 39.5% C, 4.1% D, no percentage for E or incompletes.

Michigan State College—27.4% A, 17.6% B, 33.3% C, 17.6% D, 3.9% E. No incompletes.

Northern Michigan College — 3.9% A, 27.4% B, 35.2% C, 31.3% D, No E percentages, 1.9% incompletes.

Houghton Tech—8.9% A, 16.6% B, 35.8% C, 35.8% D, No E, 2.5% incompletes.

All colleges — 8% A, 25.8% B, 35.9% C, 24.1% D, 8% E, and 1.3% incomplete.

The percentage figures, however, do not tell the whole story as the policies for admission to various colleges are a factor in the grades received.

The average EHS class ranking of students admitted from Escanaba High School follows: U of Michigan, 16.6; M.S.C., 74.8, Northern Michigan 65, Houghton Tech 32.6.

During the past few years the admission policies of most colleges and universities have been liberalized and this, of course, is reflected in the curriculum of the high school.

Edward E. Edick, Escanaba High School principal, explains it this way:

"It appears that high school students are avoiding the traditional college preparatory subjects which is resulting in higher averages in high schools. In this manner many students are being admitted to colleges with higher averages than they might have earned had they taken academic courses. These students are confronted with specific techniques of preparation and study when they enter college and it takes some time to adjust to college study."

More high school graduates now are attending colleges than ever before. In Escanaba 20 years ago only 10 to 15% of high school graduates went on to college. In 1952, the percentage was 37%.

The increase in scholarship money now available to Escanaba High School graduates suggests that the percentage may be further increased to 50 or 60%. In future years scholarship funds for EHS graduates may total $20,000 annually.

Escanaba High school graduates are doing OK scholastically in institutions of higher learning, a survey on 622 grades received from 19 colleges and universities up to March of this year indicates. The survey includes approximately 95% of EHS graduates now attending institutions of higher learning.

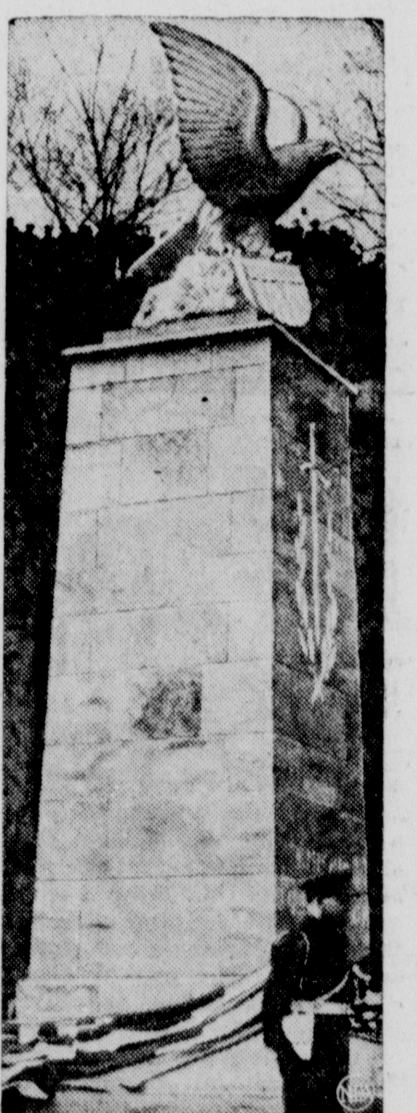

The survey reveals that 47% of the grades received by EHS graduates now in college are B or better and that 82.5% are C or better.

The table by grades follows:

Grade	Number	Percent
A	103	16.5
B	190	30.5
C	221	35.5
D	93	14.9
E	12	1.9
Inc.	3	.4

The first year of college is regularly the roughest for students and their worst marks generally are received then. The following table shows this percentage breakdown, taken from the records of EHS graduates in colleges and universities:

Grade	1st	2nd	3rd	4th
A	12.1	15.4	28.7	20.8
B	29.1	32.3	27.6	35.8
C	36.2	35.1	34.0	34.5
D	20.0	13.3	7.4	7.4
E	2.2	3.5	.....	.....
Inc.	.3	.....	1.0	1.2

Bermuda Style Shorts Win OK At MSC

EAST LANSING (P) — Michigan State College coeds have won their fight for Bermuda shorts.

This means that the girl undergraduates will be able to show between three and four inches of their knees on the campus this spring and summer.

The Associated Women Students, which sets the rules for coed dress, first held that Bermuda shorts were improper. The AWS has long frowned on the wearing of shorts. Coeds rebelled, contending that Bermuda shorts were very proper. They cited wearing of the longer-type shorts at centers of fashion and by diplomats and others.

The AWS finally relented, ruling that Bermuda shorts would be allowed if the coeds didn't wear them to classes or in certain college buildings.

Short shorts are still banned except on the athletic field.

Zoot Suits Factor In Delinquency

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (P) — County Judge George T. Naame says there's a connection between juvenile delinquency and wearing zoot suits.

"It must be more than just coincidence that a high average of juvenile offenders wear zoot suits with ankle-tight trouser cuffs, long flared coats with plunging lapels and king-sized ties and shirt collars."

Zany apparel, he said, gives juveniles a false sense of courage and self importance that can lead to delinquency.

LOS ANGELES (P) — Donald Wallace, senior gardener of Peck Park, reported that six marijuana plants had been planted in a concealed area of the park. They had been benefited by recent lawn waterings.

Narcotics men plucked the plants and began a search for the person who planted them.

Radio Hams Listed For Isle The World Forgot

WASHINGTON — The "Island the World Forgot" is being remembered briefly as radio amateurs of the Americas listen for short wave signals from a tiny coral outcrop in the eastern Pacific.

Clipperton Island, a lonely atoll 670 sea miles southwest of Acapulco, Mexico, is to go on the air if an expedition of U. S. "hams" reaches its goal. Their storm-battered schooner, engines disabled, had to radio recently for rescue aid, however.

Their distress call indicated that the isle still carries a jinx. For on that insignificant speck of rock amid empty ocean, ten degrees north of the Equator, occurred not only piracy and shipwreck, but also one of the most fantastic and tragic stories in the annals of adventure, the National Geographic Society says.

Forgotten Garrison

Although France now owns Clipperton, until 1931 its claim was contested by Mexico. In the years leading up to the first World War, fertilizer was dug from the island, and a small Mexican army garrison was maintained there.

In 1914, amid political upheaval in Mexico and the outbreak of World War I, supplies for the colony on Clipperton, numbering at least 30 men, women, and children, somehow were forgotten. Ships simply stopped coming.

After a year the desperate garrison commander, Capt Ramon de Arnaud, took the only three men still strong enough to pull oars and set out to row to the mainland, 675 miles away. They were never heard of again.

A hurricane struck soon after. Then the lighthouse keeper went insane, murdered the remaining men, and set himself up as king. One of the women he sought to enslave killed him with an axe as he slept.

On July 18, 1917 — after three years of isolation — Clipperton was visited by the U. S. S. Yorktown while on Naval patrol. Three women and eight children survived. Their terrible story was pieced together as they were taken to the mainland. But because war still raged abroad, the tragedy received little notice at the time.

Ship Of Stone

Clipperton is a low, narrow ring of coral roughly seven miles around, enclosing a land locked lagoon. A single high rock juts 62 feet above the sea, resembling a sailing ship from a distance.

From 1943 until the end of World War II, a U. S. Navy weather station was maintained on Clipperton, 2,000 miles west of the Panama Canal and 3,000 miles east of Hawaii.

Mexico long mapped the ocean outlier as the Island of Passion (Isla de la Pasion), following a

Romanian Legation Short Wave Radio In Washington Silenced

WASHINGTON (P)—The United States has silenced a short wave radio operated by the Communist Romanian legation here, presumably for direct contact with the Red government in Bucharest.

Officials said the State Department sent a note about two weeks ago to Romanian Minister Marin Florea Ionescu formally advising him that United States laws do not permit operation of any unlicensed radio sender and specifically prohibit such an operation by a foreign mission here.

The State Department was reported to have acted after receiving word from Federal Communications Commission monitors—that the transmitter was being operated from the Romanian legation.

A station operated by the Hungarian legation was put off the air under similar circumstances several months ago.

New Adult Club Considers Plans For Summer Picnics

Plans for picnics in July and August were discussed Thursday night at the second successful meeting of the Manistique senior social center organization for adults. The meeting was held in the clubrooms of American Legion Post 83, with Mrs. Arthur Thorpe in charge.

The center at the Legion hall will be open during the afternoon of Friday, May 28, on an experimental basis, to determine response to plans for daytime recreation, diversion and companionship. It will be open in the afternoon per week with Mrs. Thorpe as supervisor if interest warrants it.

Members of the counseling board, composed of representatives of various groups in the community, report that understanding and support of the organization by adults continues to increase as the effectiveness of the program is demonstrated.

Members of the board who assisted with the meeting Thursday night, in addition to Mrs. Thorpe, were Mrs. Earl H. LeBrasseur, Mrs. Franklyn T. Burgess, Mrs. Lyle Wilson, Mrs. J. J. Herbert, Dr. Alfred T. Radgens and Thor Reque.

The program this week included a pantomime, "Little Sal," in which Mrs. William L. Norton was narrator, and Mrs. Malcolm Nelson, Wilbert Rouse and Clifford Cool were in the cast. Mrs. James H. Fyvie accompanied participants in a song fest.

The friendship circle and flag ceremony, with Michael Rooney presenting the colors, preceded the brief business session.

Motorist Sent To Jail; Placed On Probation Too

William M. Cousineau, 42, of Rte. 1, Manistique, pleaded guilty in justice court Friday morning to a charge of driving with a revoked license and was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail and pay fine and costs of $35.

Justice Edward J. Doyle also placed Cousineau on probation for one year, and suspended 60 days of the 90-day sentence. The Manistique motorist will serve an additional 30 days if fine and costs are not paid.

Cousineau was arrested by city and state police Wednesday night after a car he was driving overturned near the Tannery Location. He previously has been arraigned for a similar charge.

C. J. Jansen's Condition 'Fair'

The condition of C. J. Jansen, 553 Park Ave., who suffered third degree burns in a fire at the Manistique Cleaners and Dyers plant Friday morning, is reported "fair."

He is receiving treatment in Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital for burns of the face, scalp and neck, and right arm and hand.

Paul Larson, who works for Jansen at the dry cleaning shop, suffered burns to the fingers of both hands when he aided his employer.

The fire started at 8:25 a. m. Friday when naphtha gas exploded while Jansen was cleaning clothes in a small, brick building in the rear of the main shop at 511 Oak St. Jansen came out of the building and was aided by Larson in removing burning clothing.

Emerald Trackmen In Houghton Meet

One was a brain tumor. "Better get him to Gaylord quick if you want him to see home again," doctors said.

Frankie made it home and even started school. But it didn't last long. He lapsed into a semi-coma for 35 days, which proved to be the crisis of his fight against the brain tumor.

He has recovered steadily since. Frankie still has occasional recurrences of temporary blindness and loss of balance, but they haven't happened often enough to keep him from school.

Frankie's doctors say his tumors are now dormant. Frankie helps with chores, washes dishes and even cuts and hauls wood.

Examine 64 In Pre-School Clinics Here

Sixty-four children were examined in pre-school clinics completed this week in Schoolcraft County, the Alger-Schoolcraft Health department reports.

The health department advises parents to see that children beginning school in the fall have a general physical examination.

Clinics for pre-school children are planned later this year.

The numbers of pre-school examinations given in each of the townships the past two weeks are as follows: Seney, 8; Germfask, 10; Mueller, 8; Doyle, 6; Manistique Township, 6; Hiawatha, 8; Inwood, 16; and Thompson, 2.

The above figures do not represent the total number of children who will be entering township kindergarten schools next fall, the department notes. Some children receive pre-school examinations from private physicians and others failed to report.

These False Fronts

Years ago when Peter the Great was to tour Russia, a series of false fronts were erected along roadways to impress the ruler with the material goodness of his administrators' work. Behind these were hungry, dejected peasants—peasants who later were bludgeoned into accepting the belief that communism and a god reposing in the state would provide happiness.

The folly, and the terrible, of such ignorant methods is well-known, and we can readily sympathize with the uninformed peasants who now experience brutality, hardship and death. We know that Russia made her worst mistake by refusing to recognize that people are a nation's greatest asset.

In a democracy—predicated on the art of persuasion and belief in the goodness of men—it is urgently important that citizens recognize false fronts. They come in many forms, including the smooth talk of the flatter, the self-seeker and the guilty. But they are not hard to spot, if we keep in mind that the "good tree bringeth forth good fruit" and that people are of highest importance.

Stock Car Races Will Be Held Here Sunday

A field of 25 to 30 drivers will compete here Sunday in the first stock car races of the 1954 season at the Upper Peninsula State Fairgrounds. Time trials will begin at 1:30 and the first of five races will start at 2:30.

Drivers have been tinkering with their motors for weeks in preparation for the new season. A number of new racing cars have been outfitted for the stock car competition and the opening day's program promises plenty of excitement.

Promoter Mark Olson reported that 12 entries from out of town drivers were received up to this morning and that more entries from out of town are certain before race time. The field will be increased by the number of local drivers who are entering the races.

The racing association has been preparing the track for some weeks and the quarter mile course is in tip top shape.

To acquaint more fans with the thrill of stock car racing the racing association has established low admission prices for the season's opener.

Big Perry O'Brien of the Los Angeles Athletic Club bettered his own official 59 feet 2 1/2 inches and pending 60-5 1/4 world records in the shot put with a masterful throw of 60-5 1/4.

And a fleet-footed foursome from Fordham University raced the fastest two-mile in history. Their time of 7 minutes 27.3 seconds is nearly two full seconds better than the world record of 7:29.2 set by an all-star American team in London in 1952.

Anchorman Tom Courtney, with a running start, was timed in 1:48.2 for his 880 lap. This exceeds Mark Whitfield's world mark of 1:49.2 for the distance.

Southern California surprised by winning the one-mile relay in 3:10.7, the fastest time this season.

Boone, Boomed In Cleveland, Wows Customers In Detroit

AP Newsfeatures
DETROIT — Don't let anyone kid you. Ball players are keenly aware of the fans in the stands.

Take it from Ray Boone, who in the span of one year went from boo bait with the Cleveland Indians to cleanup slugger for the Detroit Tigers.

"It means a lot to have fans on your side," says the 30-year-old infielder. "A fellow really wants to bust that ball when the fans are with him."

Felt the Pressure
"Over there (in Cleveland) I knew everybody was watching me all the time. You couldn't help but feel the pressure."

Boone virtually was booed out of a Cleveland uniform. He had two strikes, and possibly three, when he joined the Indians in 1948.

His job: To take over from Lou Boudreau, the Indians' magnificent shortstop and an idol to the rabid Cleveland fans.

When Boone's play fell short of the sparkling standards set by Boudreau, the fans became disgruntled. They had been accustomed to perfection, and Boone, with only 110 games of shortstop experience, couldn't produce for them.

So on June 15, 1953, the Indians traded him to the Tigers as part—then a seemingly small part—of an eight-player deal. As it turned out, it was one of the best trades the Detroit organization ever made.

With Harvey Kuenn a fixture at shortstop, Tiger Manager Fred Hutchinson coaxed Boone into moving over to third base. Immediately, he became a changed ball player.

Relaxed and no longer hindered by the shortstop pressure, Boone slugged the ball at a torrid clip and led the Tigers out of the basement and into sixth place.

Saved Manager, Too
He may have saved Hutchinson's job as manager, too. Before he came to the Tigers, there was doubt about Hutchinson's future. But the rise from last place to sixth earned Hutchinson a new contract.

Boone batted .302 in 101 games for Detroit, driving in 93 runs and hitting 22 home runs. He had hit a mere .241 for Cleveland, with only four home runs and 21 rbi's.

The change of uniforms was completed opening day this spring. In the shower room after the game, Boone asked one of the reporters:

"How did Cleveland make out today?"

But before the reporter could answer, Boone said:

"Who cares!"

Chicago Sox Clout Tigers

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (P)—In the twilight of his career, Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox earned his living by pitching only once a week—on Sundays.

It was a brilliant twilight. Lyons won almost every Sunday, and usually ended a White Sox losing streak which had piled up during the week.

Now, the Detroit Tigers are wondering if they have a Sunday pitcher on their staff. The only problem is that it's Billy Hoelt, who, at 22, should be young enough to pitch on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday or any day manager Fred Hutchinson calls on him.

But it hasn't worked that way. Billy Hoelt has been terrific on Sundays, with a string of 20 scoreless innings. On the other days, it's a much different story.

Such as Friday night. The slim southpaw was racked up severely by the White Sox, who steamrolled to an 8-0 victory to topple the Tigers to fourth place.

In less than five innings, the Oshkosh, Wis., lefty was touched for nine hits and five runs. That means he has yielded 21 runs in 14 unsteady innings of weekday pitching.

The White Sox, who replaced the Tigers in third place, got single runs in the second and third. They really fell on Hoelt in the fifth, hammering out five hits for three runs.

Actually, though, Detroit never had a chance against the sharp pitching of Bob Keegan, a 32-year-old right-hander who spent seven years in the minors before he ever was given a shot at the big time.

Despite his late arrival, Keegan apparently is eager to make up for lost time. His victory over the Tigers—a sparkling three-hitter—was his sixth of the season compared to only one loss.

Nary a Tiger saw second, except Frank Bolling. He played the position.

Home attendance at Tiger games continues to spiral. In 18 games, Detroit has drawn 320,759, compared to 141,384 after 18 games last season.

Ned Garver (3-1) pitches for Detroit against Chicago today, meeting Don Johnson (4-2).

Tiny Toski Leads In Eastern Open
BALTIMORE (P)—Tiny Bob Toski, still getting more bounce to the ounce, swung into the third round of the $20,000 Eastern Open today leading his nearest rival by three strokes and the rest of the golfing pack by seven.

The 5-foot-8 swinger from Livingston, N. J., Friday added a 3-under-par 69 to his opening round 66 for a 135 total, a record at the halfway mark. The old 36-hole record of 137 was set by Clayton Heafner in 1950 and is shared by three others.

All alone at 138 was Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., Friday's best performer with a 68 and the only other competitor to beat par 72 for the second straight day over the rugged Mt. Pleasant municipal course.

Four strokes behind Turnesa came George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J., who matched Toski's 69.

The only other sub 70 shooter was Chicago's Bob Rosburg, lumped at 143 with half a dozen others including Jack Burke Jr. of Kiamasha Lake, N. Y.

Also at 143 were Cary Middlecoff of Kiamasha Lake who had a 72 Friday; Australian Peter Thomson, 73; Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., 72; Roy McKenzie, Lawrenceville, N. J., 70, and Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C., 70.

The last time the Chicago White Sox won the American League pennant was in 1919.

Seems Those Cleveland Indians Really Mean Business This Time

By BEN PHLEGAR

AP Sports Writer

The Tribe is on the warpath. More and more it looks as if the Indians from Cleveland really mean business this time. No minor skirmishes, no short-lived forays, but a full scale drive right through the American League.

The Indians have stretched their lead to two games over the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox since moving into first place last Sunday.

Their 2-1 squeaker over the Baltimore Orioles Friday night was their eighth straight victory, longest winning streak in either league this season.

Safe Until Sunday

Not since the spring of 1952 have the Indians held first place for as long as a week. With their present lead they can't be budged until Sunday at the earliest.

Season after season one of the best teams in the league on paper, Cleveland rarely has been able to find the winning combination. But it's been different recently. When the pitching has faltered the hitters have hit and when all else failed Lady Luck has joined the team.

Early Wynn gave Baltimore five hits Friday night and the Indians needed their luck. They managed just three hits and the only solid one was a line single in the third by George Strickland.

The Yankees, who had burned up the West with an 8-2 road trip, returned home to get beaten 6-3 by Boston. Chicago moved into third place with an 8-0 victory over Detroit and Philadelphia lost its seventh in a row, 7-3 to Washington.

In the finale, Harnischfeger can call on any of three hurlers, John Pierpon, Vern Johnson, or Les Kamine with Dale Wood catching. The Merchants will go with Leo or Franny Lancour pitching and Harry Lancour catching.

Brief opening night ceremonies will take place between games and will feature short talks by Mayor Harlan Yelland, City Recreational Director Arthur Petersen, and George Grenholm, president of the U. P. Softball Association.

The Sunday night doubleheader kicks off the regular 1954 American League season. Official league games begin Monday and continue through the week. The game of the week is slated for Thursday night at Memorial Field with the Merchants clashing with Northland Bread.

In the National League St. Louis overcame Cincinnati 8-7 in 10 innings. Brooklyn edged Pittsburgh 3-2. Philadelphia defeated New York 8-1 and Milwaukee beat Chicago 6-4.

Whitey Ford baffled Boston until the sixth inning. Then the six-hitting Red Sox opened up with six hits including a triple by Milt Bolling, a three-run homer by Harry Agganis and two singles by Jackie Jensen. Frank Sullivan, a relief specialist, made his first major league start and pitched his first complete game since he toiled for Scranton in the Eastern League in 1950.

Bob Keegan gave only three hits to the Tigers in pitching his second shutout for Chicago. The White Sox peeked away at Billy Hoelt for single runs in the second and third, added three in the fifth and polished off the victory with three in the ninth. Cass Michaels drove in three with a pair of singles.

Big Twin Win Needed By MSC
CHICAGO (P)—Michigan State Spartans needed to sweep a doubleheader with Ohio State today to guarantee themselves sole possession of the Big Ten baseball crown.

Two MSC losses would give the championship to Ohio State and a split would mean Wisconsin could tie the Spartans for the lead by beating Minnesota twice.

This is the final day of the Big Ten schedule and all teams have doubleheaders on tap. They are: Ohio State at Michigan State, Indiana at Michigan, Wisconsin at Minnesota, Northwestern at Iowa, Illinois at Purdue.

Michigan, which shared last year's title with Illinois, dropped out of contention Friday with a 2-0 loss to Ohio State, whose Hal Northrop pitched a three-hitter and knocked a homer. The loss left the Wolverines with an 8-5 mark, compared to Michigan State's 9-2, Ohio State's 10-3 and Wisconsin's 8-3.

Michigan State beat Indiana 5-2 as Spartan pitcher Bud Erickson settled down after a two-run Hoosier outburst in the first inning and blanked them the rest of the way. Jack Risch and Dan Brown led the Spartan attack with homers.

In other games: Minnesota edged Northwestern 2-1, scoring both runs in the last of the ninth with Ken Yackel's double the big blow.

Purdue beat Illinois 6-1 behind Denny Blind's two-hitter.

Wisconsin blasted five Iowa pitchers for 27 hits and a 21-4 triumph. The Hawkeyes erred eight times.

The standings:

Michigan State	9	2	.818	—

Langlois Shelves Joey Giardello
By JACK HAN

NEW YORK (P)—Pierre Langlois, third upset winner from Jean Bretonnel's fighting French stable in the last eight days, has scrambled midweight title plans by manhandling a sluggish Joey Giardello.

Giardello was in line for an October shot at Bob Olson's crown—if the champ got past Rocky Castellani in August. Now Langlois is screaming from the roof tops.

A fellow with a flair for figures calculated a $10 parley on the French trio of Jacques Royer, Hoacine Khalif and Langlois would have netted $2,790. Whatever the exact figure, it is the most stunning "triple" in recent years.

It was a unanimous decision for Langlois—6-3-1 by both Judges Artie Aidala and Jack Gordon and 5-4-1 by Referee Ruby Goldstein. The AP had Langlois on top 7-3.

The lone knockdown of the Madison Square Garden fight came in the ninth when Langlois landed a solid counter right to the jaw, a punch Bretonnel said they practiced all week. Giardello got up at about two but took the automatic eight and one more for good measure standing in a corner.

Langlois, 159 1/4, treated Giardello, 160 1/4, roughly in the corners and along the ropes. Seldom was Giardello able to cut loose with the rapid combination that knocked out Garth Panter, Walter Cartier and Willie Troy in his last three previous starts.

The Giardello camp blamed the defeat on Joey's disappointment about being bypassed when Olson signed to defend against Castellani.

Capitol Quotes

(By Congressional Quarterly)
Information Please

About Indo-China—"What bothers me and many of my colleagues is the small amount of information we have been given to date by the Administration about this Indo-China situation."—Rep. Charles R. Howell (D. N. J.) in his April 5 newsletter.

About the H-bomb—"Two thousand years ago it was said, 'Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free.' The time has come when the people of all nations should know... the truth about the power and effect of atomic-hydrogen weapons."—Rep. Chet Holifield (D. Calif.) in his March 30 newsletter.

Foreign Trade
Stockholder?—"... Mr. (Clarence B.) Randall (Chairman of the Commission on Foreign Economic Policy) should volunteer the information whether he is a stockholder in any of the international oil companies or other concerns which stand to profit by the extension of free trade."—Rep. Elizabeth Kee (D. W. Va.) in an April 1 House speech.

World Leadership—"I hope that the Congress will adopt the President's recommendations (on foreign economic policy) and thus accept for the United States the position of world leadership which events have thrust upon us."—Sen. Prescott Bush (R. Conn.) in a March 30 news release.

"Dope Habit"
"I favor the principle of flexible supports because it makes it possible to get off the 'dope habit' of artificial supports as rapidly as can be done with safety and with fairness to all concerned."—Rep. Paul W. Shafer (R. Mich.) in his April 7 newsletter.

Barn Doors For Benson?
Apparently, I am going to get plenty of help in my campaign project "to hang the hide of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson on every barn door in Oklahoma." A farmer near Enid writes to offer "the first barn door" and a farmer's wife near Red Rock wants to provide some of the nails. "I don't know of any service I could afford you that would give me more pleasure," she writes.—Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D. Okla.) in an April 1 news release.

Statehood
"It might be that if we admitted Hawaii to statehood now, no serious harm would be done. And perhaps we might later admit other states which are separated from us by ocean barriers without paying a severe penalty. Nevertheless, I believe that these would be acts of imprudence for the sound reason stated by Daniel Webster—that there are limits beyond which we ought not to extend our national territory if we wish to make our institutions permanent."—Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D. Va.) in a March 31 news release.

Bipartisan Policy
"I have proposed that the Administration inaugurate a more formal program of foreign policy consultation with the minority party... Secretary of State (John Foster) Dulles soon will be going to Geneva... An early inauguration of formal bipartisan consultations... will greatly strengthen his hand."—Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen Jr. (R. N. J.) in his April 1 newsletter.

Southern Hospitality
"Florida people consider their state as sort of a natural home for such an institution (the Air Force Academy)... so in many areas they are taking steps to see that sufficient land for the site is made available at no cost to the government... this is the type of Florida hospitality which is assured the Air Force and the Academy."—Sen. George A. Smathers (D. Fla.) in an April 1 news release.

Dynamic and Progressive
"We have before us, in complete detail, a dynamic and progressive program for attaining the objectives to which all good Americans aspire. Although there are many side issues... I believe there is nothing facing us that is as important as the prompt enactment of the legislation needed to put into effect the Eisenhower program."—Rep. Horace Seely-Brown, Jr. (R. Conn.) in his March 18 newsletter.

Public Power
"The policy of the Department of the Interior in regard to power is not to get the government out of its proper sphere but instead to get into the power field all additional resources both public and private which are necessary to meet the needs of the people."—Rep. James B. Utt (R. Calif.) in his March 25 newsletter.

Lighted Windows In Polar North

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (AP)—O. J. Weiben, Fort William airlines manager, said it gave him "quite a start" his first night on the Belcher Islands in Hudson Bay to see lighted windows like a small town. In daylight he had seen nothing but a desolate waste of ice and snow.

The lighted windows were in Eskimo igloos. "They make their windows with a clear sheet of ice," said Weiben. With little use for white man's goods, except guns and ammunition, some 200 Eskimo families are spread through the 3,000-square-mile area of the islands in mid-Hudson Bay. Housing presents no problem. Within two or three hours they can "whip up an igloo."

Church Forgives Thieving Sinners

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—The Huron Street Methodist Church board voted to forgive who ever took three containers of gasoline from their Sunday school bus. The three filled cans were found later with a note attached. It read: "Dear Sirs: I have taken this gas, but now I am returning it with my regrets. Please forgive me. P. S. It won't happen again."

Invent New Method Of Producing Rain

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo (AP)—Belgian Congo authorities are making new rain-making experiments. For some years the climate in the lower Congo has become drier. Cocoa and banana plantations no longer get the moisture needed for full development. A spell of drought brought near disaster. Experiments were started with a new method which dispenses with airplanes. Wood, soaked in silver iodide is burned; the smoke carrying the chemical into the air. The first results of this new method appear encouraging, officials say.

Veteran Sheriff Taken By Death

GRAND RAPIDS (P) — Hugh M. Blacklock, sheriff of Kent County for the past 20 years, died Friday in Butterworth Hospital after a long illness. He was 61.

A legendary athlete reminiscent of the great Jim Thorpe in both Grand Rapids Central High School and at Michigan State College, Blacklock underwent an operation a year ago. He had been in ill health since that time.

Blacklock had been in police work since he was 21 years old, serving as a deputy until first elected sheriff in 1914. A Republican, he was known as one of the best "vote getters" in the county for two decades.

A versatile athlete in football, track and hockey, Blacklock was an outstanding star at then Michigan Agricultural College for three years until he entered the Navy in 1917.

At Great Lakes Naval Training Station he sparked the 1918 undefeated eleven which won the mythical national championship and went to the Rose Bowl. As a tackle he was named to Walter Camp's all-service team, the wartime equivalent of all-American.

Blacklock was widely known for his promotion of close-knit cooperation between law enforcement agencies.

He lived to see one of his most earnest dreams fulfilled. He had been a staunch supporter for years over a new jail to replace the ancient structure which he had presided over for 20 years. The county recently voted to construct a modern $1,500,000 jail.

He is survived by his wife, Bessie, and a son, Hugh, Jr.

State Closes Up Paw Paw Winery

LANSING (P) — The State Liquor Control Commission closed the Paw Paw Winery at Paw Paw Thursday until chemists determine whether its wine meets state standards.

George J. Burke, commission chairman, said this was the first time such drastic action had been taken in years.

He said that commission inspectors on May 10 found a tank of wine at the winery which tested "high in volatile acids — almost vinegar."

The tank was impounded, Burke said, but when the inspectors returned it was found empty. He said the inspectors have not been able to learn what became of the contents.

The winery will be closed several days, Burke said, until chemists have completed tests and then allowed to reopen if standards are met. However, the winery will be cited for the original violation of standards.

Burke quoted Anthony Muscare, owner of the winery, as contending the inspectors made a mistake and tested the wrong wine.

"THEY GO THROUGH THE AIR . . ." — Siegfried Cimarro, a well-known German trapeze artist, who was grounded because of an injury several years ago, has found a way to compensate for his idleness. He's training his three sons, left to right, Mathias, Thomas and Michael, to become trapeze performers. A refugee from the Soviet zone, Cimarro uses his sister's West Berlin apartment to put the youngsters through the paces.

Alleged Selling Of Chiropractic Tests Investigated

ANN ARBOR (P) — A one-man grand jury investigation of the alleged selling of state examinations to prospective chiropractors has been ordered by Circuit Judge James R. Breakey Jr.

Judge Breakey, who will sit as the juror, ordered the investigation Thursday on petition of Prosecutor Edmund F. DeVine.

Dr. C. W. O'Dell, chairman of the Michigan Academy of Chiropractic, recommended the inquiry after published reports that one chiropractic school graduate had bought and another had been offered copies of examinations given by the State Basic Science Board of Examiners.

Anyone practicing a healing art in Michigan must pass the Basic Science Board's examination to obtain a license.

The purported $600 sale of examination papers shortly before the board's examinations were given last May was made at Willow Run Airport, which is in Washtenaw County and thus under Breakey's jurisdiction as Washtenaw circuit judge.

Breakey had delayed action on O'Dell's request pending action on a somewhat similar one pending in Ingham (Lansing) Circuit Court. Judge Louis E. Coash advised Breakey yesterday his preliminary investigation indicated insufficient evidence was available in his jurisdiction for a grand jury inquiry.

Dental Insurance System Started In New York City

NEW YORK (P) — Establishment of the first community-wide program for voluntary dental insurance has been announced for New York City and surrounding areas by a non-profit group.

The plan — similar to hospital and surgical insurance plans — was announced Wednesday by Group Health Dental Insurance Plan, Inc.

The plan will require each subscriber and each member of a subscribed family to have a thorough dental examination and to pay for repair of all existing defects up to a limit of $150 to qualify for insurance coverage. The plan will pay the difference if the initial cost exceeds $150.

Generally, the plan will take subscribers only from company groups of 40 or more members where at least 75 per cent of the employees sign up. Dr. Bissell B. Palmer, president of the plan, explained that this group policy was set so that the plan would get a fair sample of the population, and not just a batch of poor dental risks.

Fees for full protection will range from $1.65 a month for an individual to $6 a month for a family. The plan will pay fixed fees to participating dentists. The fees will not be as large as most dentists usually charge.

Two classes of service will be available:

1. If the family income is $5,000 a year or less, the dentist will charge no more than the fixed fees for treatment. Such a patient, after initial repairs are made, would never receive a bill for dental work covered by the plan.

2. Patients with family incomes of more than $5,000 a year will be insured on an indemnity basis. They will be billed by dentists at their regular rates. The plan will pay the amount specified in the contract, and the balance of the bill will be the responsibility of the patient.

Church Organ Starts Talking

NEWPORT, Ark. (P) — Mrs. J. A. Gregory was practicing on the organ at St. Paul's Episcopal Church here when, suddenly, a voice boomed out of the instrument.

"I got to thinking about all the funerals I had played for," said Mrs. Gregory, "and it scared me plenty."

Investigation showed that the organ's amplifier had acted as a receiver to pick up an amateur radio broadcast.

Drastic Increases In Michigan Draft Quotas Predicted

SAGINAW (P) — Col. Arthur A. Holmes, Michigan director of selective service, says the state's quota may zoom to thousands each month if the international situation fails to improve.

Holmes said there will be a drastic quota increase in July and added it may continue to rise for the next six months until the calls are five to six times greater than the present 1,000 per month.

He addressed a group of draft board officials from eight eastern Michigan counties at a regional conference Thursday night.

Holmes, emphasizing a national directive, said there can be no departure from the rule against "extenuating circumstances" deferments for married men who became fathers after Aug. 25, 1933.

School Officials Get Instruction

LANSING (P) — Five schools of instruction were announced to help public school officials comply with a new state law requiring audits of their finances and enrollments.

Aud. Gen. John B. Martin said he and Dr. Clair L. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, have completed a guide to audit procedures and will send them soon to county school superintendents and certified public accountants.

The schools of instruction will be open to county school heads, persons they designate to handle audits and to interested CPA's.

The schools will be held Tuesday at Central Michigan College, Mt. Pleasant; Wednesday at Gaylord High School; Thursday at Northern Michigan College, Marquette; June 2 at Michigan State Normal College, Ypsilanti, and June 3 at Western Michigan College, Kalamazoo.

Audits of schools were required by the Legislature this year after a series of scandals involving padding of school enrollments to obtain excessive state aid money.
